Wilson Comes Out Fighting at County GOP Fete

By LYNN MULVANEY

KERHONKSON

Gov. Malcolm Wilson came out slugging Sunday night at the Ulster County GOP dinner, telling the throng of 1,300 that it was his Democratic opponent, Hugh Carey of Brooklyn who voted for $130 billion in deficits.

"Inflation out of control?" he asked. "That's what causes inflation."

One of the first to greet the governor was former Sen. Arthur Wicks, of Ulster County.

"Artie Wicks," said the governor as he embraced him and then the two reflected on the AFL-CIO endorsement of Carey instead of Wilson last week with Wilson reminding Wicks that it was the Wilson-Wicks bill that protected New York City subway workers when their jobs were imperiled years ago.

"It was my Irish mother," Wilson recalled, "that said, 'Eaten bread is soon forgotten.'"

Wilson spent a good deal of time talking with the many he encountered, telling them of his fears that a Democratic government in Albany will mean virtually an exclusive focus on New York City. "We are concerned about the vast problems of everyone living in the state. The problems of residents of one town are as important as persons in the cities." The governor suggested that the Democrats focus is on the City of New York whereas the GOP recognizes and tries to solve the problems of the city as well as upstate.

Asked how polls view his candidacy, Wilson said he is not aware of any recent polls and is not taking any himself.

Commenting on the current State Department of Correction investigation of Ulster County Sheriff William B. Martin, Wilson said he is not aware of the details but said the matter "is in the good hands of Commissioner Peter Preiser."

The governor, on several occasions also made a point of telling listeners that he "never wanted the death penalty removed." He called the present Republican administration "tough on crime" because it wants "people free from fear."

He said a death penalty bill for slayers of police and correctional officers was signed because we are "sick and tired of people having to pay the tax of crime. . . I want to make people safe and make the streets safe," he said.

Getting back to his opponent, Wilson said Carey and the rest of the members of Congress are responsible for inflation and that Carey was only in attendance in the House 50 per cent of the time.

"More people ought to realize," he said, "that government doesn't have a five-cent piece until it takes it from the taxpayers. . . People are getting a lot more government than they need."

Reflecting on the primary in September in which Carey beat his opponent, OTB betting chief Howard Samuels, Wilson said that only 26 per cent of the Democrats voted and that Carey beat Samuels by a margin of only 200,000. "The only people who would put him there were the Democrats of New York City," he said.

The governor also accused Carey of spending one-half million more on his primary campaign than the law allows.

Ford's Anti-Inflation Message Set Tuesday

5 Per Cent Surtax Listed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has made the major decisions on his anti-inflation message, which one White House aide said will ask for "restraint, self-discipline and sacrifice" from all sectors of the nation.

The proposals will be presented Tuesday in a speech to Congress.

Ford's goals are to curtail inflation, head off a recession, reverse the U.S. dependence on foreign oil, revive a depressed housing industry, bring interest rates down, stimulate the stock market, help power companies expand, shelter the worst victims — the jobless and the working poor — from inflation's pains and keep the Republicans from taking a shellacking in next month's elections.

Time Magazine said Sunday that the economic proposals would include a 5 per cent surtax on individual income taxes for persons in higher income brackets and on corporations.

The plan, according to Time, also would provide some form of tax relief for low-income families, expand public-service employment programs, provide federal financial aid for the mortgage market, new energy conservation measures and propose a $5 billion cut in the federal budget.

Ford spent one hour and 15 minutes with economic advisors Sunday afternoon, making final choices on economic and energy conservation programs. "Almost all major decisions have been made," said press secretary Ron Nessen.

He said Ford would ask Americans "to exhibit restraint, self-discipline and sacrifice, and I want to emphasize that the government itself is not exempt from any of these three."

Arriving at Bethesda Naval Hospital for a visit with his wife, Ford was asked about the proposals. "We expect to have a fair program," the President said.

Nessen said the burdens "will be distributed equally . . . so that everybody bears their just share."

Some sort of big, broad and probably temporary tax increase appeared inevitable — the first general income tax increase since the Vietnam War.

Additional revenues are necessary to offset the losses arising from new tax incentives for business investment, while still decreasing federal borrowing so as to reduce pressure on interest rates.

Some White House advisors said a short term surtax — a percentage increase on regular federal income taxes — might be sought for all taxpayers with income over a specified level, perhaps, $15,000.

The President is certain to seek to reawaken interest in conserving energy.

He has been urged by energy advisor John Sawhill to use the tax laws to induce people to consume less gasoline and heating fuels. But the White House ruled out rationing or any increase in gasoline taxes.

At Lake Placid, former presidential advisor Melvin R. Laird says that President Ford's programs to combat inflation, to be announced Tuesday, will be inadequate to cope with economic problems facing the free world.

Nevertheless, Ford's announcements Tuesday will be unpopular, Laird predicted.

The former Nixon cabinet officer told a meeting of the Associated Industries of New York Saturday that a tough energy conservation effort will be the key to reversing a balance of trade deficit that is now fueled by a $25 billion a-year outflow for Middle East oil.

Laird said Congress will have to give the President power to impose rationing of gasoline and other energy sources.

He said a flow of free world funds to Middle Eastern countries at an annual rate of $100 billion can only mean "inflation such as this world has never seen before."

The current voluntary conservation effort in the United States has been a failure, Laird said. "I can't believe that in September 1974, gas use was greater than that of September of 1973."

Many of the recommendations Ford will unveil "will not be popular, but I do not believe the recommendations will be tough enough," Laird said.

He said Congress must authorize "presidential powers" to limit use of energy to the most efficient uses.

Laird said the plan which must ultimately evolve — lacking a dramatic cutback in energy use — will be "some sort of rationing program to regulate the use of petroleum products, not only the use for travel but also in other areas."

A bill that would give the President such powers is currently bottled up in Senate-House committees, and is unlikely to be approved because of unfavorable reaction to amendments to the measure, he said.

Laird said increased taxes on petroleum products, "particularly gasoline," might be needed to promote conservation. He said the tax could be refunded to individuals on the basis of use for productive purposes "such as going to and from work."

He said persons taking part in certified car pools might obtain a double rebate of the tax. He proposed using the remainder of the tax collected to subsidize mass transit programs.

Fish Bills for Seniors

WASHINGTON, D.C. Two pieces of legislation, intended to ease the impact of inflation on the nation's senior citizens, have been introduced by Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr.

The two separate but related bills would provide for the monthly publication of a Consumer Price Index for the aged, and authorize the computation of cost-of-living increases in Social Security benefits on a semi-annual rather than annual basis.

According to the Millbrook Republican, who represents New York's 25th Congressional District, a monthly Consumer Price Index for the aged would be used as the base for the cost-of-living benefit increases authorized by Title II of the Social Security Act.

"This special index," said Fish, "would be designed to reflect a cost-of-living increase actually based upon the buying habits and needs of individuals who are 65 years of age or older."

Under the second bill introduced by Fish, those cost-of-living increases for the elderly would be computed twice a year.

"Under the present law," Fish noted, "the cost-of-living index is computed from January to January, with any resulting benefit increase reaching the senior citizen after that."

"Such an idea may have been adequate when inflation was at four or five per cent per year, but under the current 12 per cent annual price increase, it would seem a cost-of-living computation every six months is called for. This is already done for retired government pensioners."

In announcing the related bills, Fish stated, "I believe the enactment of these two pieces of legislation will definitely assist our older Americans living on fixed incomes. As the needs of those 65 or older are not similar to the general population, a special Consumer Price Index geared to those needs is logical, as is getting benefit increase based upon those figures to the elderly more quickly."

In related economy measures, Fish has announced two proposals that he believes will help stimulate the suffocating home building industry.

Speaking before the Home Builders of Westchester and Putnam Counties last week, Fish pointed out that a major reason for a lack of mortgage funds from Savings and Loan and Savings Banks is the decline in savings caused by inflation. To that end, the congressman said he has introduced legislation which would exempt from taxation the first $800 in interest in joint savings accounts. The legislation, said Fish, would "serve as a strong inducement for individuals to increase their deposits in these thrift institutions."

And, Fish told the gathering that he has introduced a second piece of legislation that would create a national authority to develop criteria on which demands on the credit market merit priority in lending.

"Congress must act to create a system of channeling scarce credit to depressed sectors of the economy, such as housing," Fish said.

Noise Pollution and the Arterial

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON The long delayed Kingston North-South Arterial is facing its strongest challenge, an unfavorable ruling from the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

Failure to satisfy EPA requirements could further delay the road at best or force its cancellation, at worse.

EPA issued a press release about three weeks ago which said only that "EPA has reservations primarily on the noise impact of the project." However, the Freeman has obtained a copy of the complete EPA report and it is a good deal stronger than the press release indicates.

For openers, EPA, like several other critical agencies, including Mid-Hudson Pattern for Progress, feels that the study does not go far enough; that it should include the entire length of the road, from Port Ewen to the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge. The study covers what the DOT refers to as Phase I of the road, from Port Ewen to the junction of Route 32 and 9W near the city line.

EPA addresses itself to that aspect thusly, "Nowhere is it mentioned, but the maps provided in the impact statement give the impression that the Kingston North-South Arterial would eventually be extended beyond its presently proposed termini. This is further strengthened by a statement that declares the southern connection with Route 9W as temporary.

"If this statement is part of a more extensive project it should be so stated and consideration given to an impact statement addressing the entire road. A 2.48 mile segment of a larger highway proposal is not a proper subject for an individual EIS" (Environmental Impact Statement), according to EPA.

As for noise, EPA stated DOT were not entirely germane since "worse case" traffic levels were not detailed.

Special

Still, judging from figures supplied in the draft environmental impact statement, EPA notes "significant impact" from noise pollution along several points of the road which it says "cannot be discounted."

The EPA report several specific areas where it feels noise pollution would be excessive, which arrived during the summer recess.

Most petitions for review considered in the justices' week-long conferences will be rejected on Oct. 15 at their first public business session, making the lower court rulings final.

A few cases will be acted on immediately and some will be accepted for argument and later opinion.

As the new term gets underway, the court's docket shows the usual array of issues affecting the personal lives of Americans but few far-reaching ones. Racial questions no longer keep the court as busy as in the past.

Whether the death sentence is "cruel and unusual punishment" banned by the Constitution comes to the court from seven North Carolinians on Death Row.

Even that case could be decided on a technicality, since the men can be saved without a decision on the constitutional question.

The court in 1972 banned capital punishment as then administered but since then numerous states have revised their laws or enacted new ones and the NAACP, which brought the challenge, says 141 men are now under sentence of death.

The North Carolina Supreme Court reinterpreted state law to make it conform with the 1972 ruling.

This factor may give the federal tribunal an "out" in the event that it wishes to delay a final decision.

The justices, who have direct criticism of air pollution impact although it suggests that methods of obtaining data for the report did not meet accepted standards.

There is also some criticism of running the road through a dim view of remedial measures suggested in the DOT report. "The Environmental Impact Statement discounts the increase in noise levels due to the proposed project because such increase will occur over a 25-year period," states EPA.

"This attitude indicates a misunderstanding of the health and welfare effects of noise on people."

DOT officials in Poughkeepsie had no comment on the EPA report, only to say that it will be studied and addressed in a final environmental impact study which DOT hopes to have by the first of the year.

Supreme Court Term Opens

WASHINGTON (UPI) — He may be injured, but Chief Justice Warren E. Burger will be wield the gavel anyhow today at the formal ceremonies beginning the Supreme Court's 1974-75 term.

Capital punishment and wiretapping top a huge backlog of appeals.

The chief justice has been recuperating since Sept. 20 from multiple minor injuries suffered in a fall from a bicycle.

Burger was to formally declare the court's fall term in session and admit a few attorneys to practice.

Then, the nine justices adjourn to their private conference room where they start work on about 1,000 cases which arrived during the summer recess.

Most petitions for review considered in the justices' week-long conferences will be rejected on Oct. 15 at their first public business session, making the lower court rulings final.

A few cases will be acted on immediately and some will be accepted for argument and later opinion.

The justices, who have wrestled with wiretapping over many years, have not yet issued opinions on whether the government may wiretap, without a warrant, to gather information about foreign intelligence activities and whether what it gets may be used in a criminal trial.

Warrantless wiretapping for domestic security reasons was barred more than two years ago by the Court, which said it violates the Constitution's ban on "unreasonable searches and seizures."

Lesser wiretap appeals now docketed involve a husband's tapping his wife's telephone and using the conversations in a divorce suit and a challenge to an alleged wiretapping by a grand jury witness held in contempt for failure to answer questions.

City Boy Struck by Ambulance

KINGSTON
A four-year-old boy who was injured Saturday night when struck by an ambulance backing into a driveway on Hasbrouck Avenue was listed in serious condition today in the intensive care unit at Kingston Hospital.

According to police, the boy, Robert K. Gromoll of 38 Garden Street, was struck when he ran from bushes behind an ambulance backing into the driveway at 482 Hasbrouck Avenue.

The ambulance was owned by Fatum's Ambulance Service and was driven by Ralph L. Nagele, 24, of 482 Hasbrouck Avenue. No summonses were issued.

Elsewhere, Gary S. Harmon, 22, of Middletown, was killed Sunday in the Sullivan County community of Mamakating when the motorcycle he was riding collided with a car, State Police said.

The car's driver, Eugene R. Henry, 25, of Pine Bush, was charged with failure to keep right, authorities said.

The two vehicles were going in opposite directions on Burlington Road when the mishap occurred, police said.

Meanwhile, Craig Papparello, 18, of Teaneck, N.J. was injured early Sunday when he was thrown through the windshield of an auto which slammed into a utility pole on School Road in the Town of Saugerties.

Saugerties Town Police said Papparello was a passenger in an auto driven by Gerald M. Panza, 18, of Teaneck, N.J. which ran off the road at about 2:15 a.m. No summonses were issued.

Papparello was taken to Kingston Hospital by Saugerties Ambulance. He was listed in satisfactory condition today.

Gilman Critical Of Trip

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Benjamin A. Gilman, R-N.Y., said today that the trip two senators took to Cuba was an improper attempt to launch negotiations.

In a statement, Gilman said it is "not the function" of individual lawmakers to "take it upon themselves to travel to hostile nations, arbitrarily and unilaterally launching negotiations on behalf of the United States, which substantively could affect U.S. foreign policies."

The "proper place" for debate of foreign policy is in the Congress and not in the halls of some "far off government," Gilman said, referring to the trip two weeks ago by Sens. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., and Claiborne Pell, D-R.I.

Both are members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee who went to Cuba for a weekend stay over the opposition of State Department officials.

Gilman, saying he saw no willingness on the part of Fidel Castro to resume relations with the United States, said the Cuban dictator in fact "took advantage" of Pell and Javits "by launching a vitriolic attack on the United States."

Gilman also said he is opposed to "one-sided," U.S. reconciliation with Cuba. "Our nation must not grovel to this or any other dictator," he said.

Jack Dempsey Loses This Bout

NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Dempsey, knocked out of the restaurant business by inflation and changing eras, was sipping champagne as his latest bout came to an end.

"You get tired sometimes," said the 79-year-old Dempsey Sunday night after the former heavyweight champion closed the doors of his landmark Broadway restaurant. "That's life. I don't know what I'll do now."

Dempsey lost a legal fight to keep the Inch Corporation, his new landlords, from nearly doubling the rent to $100,000 on his midtown eatery, a glamour spot when it opened in 1947.

Shaking hands and signing autographs on $5 and $10 bills, Dempsey, the Manassa Mauler of the 1920s, said, "This is my second home and I have lost it."

Dempsey got his first restaurant experience in 1900 at age 5 as a dishwasher in his father's Rio Grande Eating House in Montrose, Colo.

Three Accused Of Arson

HIGHLAND
Three juveniles have been charged with second degree arson in connection with a huge fire Saturday night at the Highland Training School for Children which virtually destroyed the former main building at the school, state police said today.

Police said the three boys, ages 15, 15 and 11, allegedly set a series of fires in the large U-shaped building at about 5:30 p.m. Saturday.

Eight fire departments from southeastern Ulster County and Dutchess County battled the blaze throughout the night Saturday, but were unable to save the building.

According to a spokesman for the Training School, the building was in the process of being vacated, and was slated for demolition in the future. The two-story structure contained administration offices, several of which had already been moved to other buildings before the fire. Records which were still in the building were salvaged, the school spokesman said.

Rocky's $50,000 Gift to Kissinger Confirmed

NEW YORK (UPI) — The State Department has confirmed that vice-presidential nominee Nelson Rockefeller gave Henry Kissinger a $50,000 gift in 1969 in appreciation for his services as a foreign affairs advisor.

Paul Hare, a department spokesman, said Saturday the gift was received after Kissinger left Rockefeller's staff but before he became former President Nixon's national security advisor.

"Before accepting it, Dr. Kissinger discussed this with the then President-elect and his counsel," Hare said.

"Dr. Kissinger put the $50,000 into trusts for his two children and filed gift tax returns covering these gifts to the children."

"He understood that Governor Rockefeller filed a gift tax return on the gift to him," he said.

Hugh Morrow, a spokesman for Rockefeller, said the former governor told Kissinger in a letter dated Jan. 17, 1969, "As a token of my friendship and appreciation for the work you have done in service to the people of this country I am arranging to have a gift made to you in the amount of $50,000."

Morrow also confirmed that Rockefeller made a $86,312.50 gift to former state official L. Judson Morehouse and a gift of an undisclosed amount to Dr. William Ronan, chairman of the Port Authority and former head of the Metropolitan Transportation Authority.

Morehouse was sentenced to prison in 1966 on bribery and other charges in connection with a scandal in the New York Liquor Authority. His sentence was commuted by Rockefeller for medical reasons, the former governor said during his recent nomination hearings.

Morrow said the gift to Morehouse last December represented cancellation of the remainder of a $100,000 loan made in September, 1960. He said Rockefeller loaned the money to Morehouse, who served as state Republican party chairman from 1954 until 1962, so Morehouse could invest the money and have an income, since the chairmanship was an unsalaried position. Morrow said the Ronan gift represented a cancellation of personal notes, but did not elaborate. The State Department comments on the Kissinger gift came in response to reports that the Senate Rules Committee had asked Rockefeller for an explanation. The committee completed its public hearings on the nomination but has not yet voted on whether to recommend it to the full Senate.

Ford Faces Grilling on Nixon Pardon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford will make two visits to Capitol Hill this week. At one of them he will answer questions about his pardon of Richard M. Nixon — perhaps the first time ever that a president in office appeared before a congressional committee as a formal witness.

The estimated two-hour visit is to be televised in the same room where millions of viewers saw members of the House Judiciary Committee vote articles of impeachment charging Nixon with the Watergate cover-up and misuse of his presidential power.

The votes led to Nixon's Aug. 9 resignation.

Now the panel's subcommittee on criminal justice wants to know why Ford, a month later, gave Nixon a "free and full" pardon for all crimes committed during his term of office.

The subcommittee, headed by Rep. William Hungate, D-Mo., asked Ford a series of questions to explain his decision.

The subcommittee got a response that angered them — that Ford had spoken publicly and at length about the pardon — and a sheaf of clippings.

Hungate demanded that Ford send one of his top aides, but the President, a 25-year veteran of the House and comfortable with its procedures, offered to make the visit himself.

The White House had said both George Washington and Abraham Lincoln appeared before congressional committees, but the Library of Congress says this is the first presidential visit in history.

Washington, the library contends, appeared before the full Senate and Lincoln's appearance before the House Judiciary Committee was informal.

For the second time since he became President two months ago, Ford has scheduled an address to a joint session of Congress. Such sessions usually are confined to annual State of the Union speeches.

Ron Nessen, Ford's press secretary, said the President will ask Congress to bite the bullet on several mandatory anti-inflation measures.

Nessen ruled out a gasoline tax increase, but left open the possibility Ford might seek other tax increases and propose measures to make more loan money available and reduce interest rates.

After that, Congress plans to start a month-long election recess Friday without taking action on trade or tax reform or the confirmation of Nelson A. Rockefeller to be vice president.

Both houses plan action this week on a campaign reform measure which would finance presidential elections, primaries and conventions with public funds and limit contributions and candidate spending.

Both houses also must pass a continuing resolution to finance foreign aid and other agencies which have not yet received permanent appropriations.

Selection Continues

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica is trying to speed jury selection for the Watergate trial by lengthening his court days.

The process of trying to find a jury is in its fifth day and some defense lawyers believe that, even with an extra hour each day, the panel of 12 and six alternates won't be chosen until the end of the week.

Even then, there are some issues that Sirica may decide must be worked out before testimony is heard. For example, lawyers for former President Richard M. Nixon have asked that subpoenas for Nixon's testimony be quashed.

Today, Sirica continues questioning potential jurors on their general awareness of Watergate. Sources familiar with the closed courtroom session say the judge has been emphasizing heavily whether or not the prospective jurors watched either the televised Senate Watergate hearings or the House Judiciary impeachment hearings.

Child Abuse...A Big Problem

By United Press International
An Atlanta man rhythmically forced his 2-year-old stepchild's head under the bathtub water and drowned him because he was taking to toilet training too slowly.

A 25-year-old unwed San Francisco mother brought her 3-year-old to a hospital with a fractured skull and conflicting stories of how it happened.

In Chicago, a mother who had been arrested for living in a car with her five children left her 2-year-old son with neighbors she barely knew for what was supposed to be a few hours. The child remained at the house several days.

The neighbors said she brought him over covered with scratches and burns. His penis was black and blue.

Child abuse is not confined to racial group, economic level or region of the country. It is as common for fathers to be abusive as mothers.

And some authorities say the present economic situation is likely to make the problem even worse.

Parents Anonymous, an Alcoholics Anonymous-like organization for abusive parents, said some 685 cases of child abuse were reported nationally each day in 1973. That year's total figure was 250,000.

Oregon residents reported 350 cases of child abuse in 1973, while Mississippians reported 91 cases, compared with 52 the year before. Birmingham, Ala., had 144 cases reported for the first nine months of this year and Atlanta hears of some 48 child abuse cases each month.

Detroit police receive about four child abuse calls every week.

In San Francisco, 125 cases of child abuse were reported last year, but Jim Garrison, head of the San Francisco Child Abuse Council, said the number accounts for perhaps 10 per cent of the actual cases.

Barbara Cundiff, a supervisor for the Fulton County, Ga., Child Protective Services, says the economy is taking its toll on children with abuse-prone parents.

Early Van Lydegraff, head of the sheltered care unit of Oregon's Children's Services Division, said the problems invariably gets worse at Christmas.

Clark said he raised about $235,000 through contributions of $100 or less, "paid every bill at the end of the primary" with some to spare, and plans to stick to the $100 limitation.

He added his contributions average about $20 per person.

Clark, Javits Debate

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., Sunday night accused his Democratic opponent, former U. S. Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, of casting "innuendoes at me" about Javits' campaign contributors.

Clark, in turn, charged Javits had grossly misrepresented Clark's position on the Middle East.

The accusations were the high spots of a live television debate on WPIX-TV during which the two leading candidates were joined by a last minute debater—Conservative Party candidate Barbara Keating, who demanded and got equal time.

Javits' ire was raised by Clark's repetition of charges that Javits has received heavy contributions from banking and oil interests.

Clark, who has refused to take more than $100 from any one contributor, said Javits had defended the contributions from bankers and oilmen by saying "these are my old friends."

Clark asked: "How come so many of his old friends are in these industries? ... They have reasons for giving."

Javits said he believes in public financing of campaigns but this campaign has been financed "the same way I always did."

He said he had raised about $500,000 and spent $280,000 or $290,000 so far, and "I hope to raise a million."

New Energy Crisis

In a week's time eight electric utilities canceled programs for new power plants construction in the East and Midwest. This can be taken as the first warning of an energy crisis that could bring power brownouts and blackouts in the future. And they will have nothing to do with shortages of oil or the whims of the Arabs.

It is a shortage of money that is derailing efforts by the utility industry to provide the generating capacity to meet anticipated demand for electricity in the late 1970s and 1980s.

Utilities are beginning to shelve expansion plans because of difficulty in financing new plants in the current tight money market and delays in getting their rates increased to cover higher prices for fuel.

Power shortages could occur in the more immediate future for another reason. The financial squeeze is also leading to curtailment of maintenance work by many utilities. Plant breakdowns are thus more likely, putting unusual demands on the national grid for distribution of available power.

Fuel and borrowed money for plant investment are both expensive right now, but these are costs that must be reflected in current utility rate structure if future needs for electricity are going to be met.

There is no doubt that the public is concerned over the drop of spendable income because of inflation, but public understanding of the problems and objectives of the electric utility industry as one of the nation's major energy providers is crucial to the future of the United States.

The responsibility of serving the energy needs of the U.S., because of the increase in demand for electric energy and the variety of fuels which may be used to produce it, has fallen increasingly on the investor-owned electric utility industry. It is a responsibility which cannot be fulfilled without reasonable earnings and profits. The canceled programs for new power plant construction clearly point this out.

Of course it is the responsibility of the electric utility systems to show that a healthy portion of the profits is being used to make research and development breakthroughs that will eventually benefit the public.

Healthful for Democrats

Little has been said about one aspect of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's early withdrawal from the 1976 presidential race — and probably from the 1980 contest as well, should a Democratic candidate win two years hence. What we have in mind is that this all but ends what might be called the "Kennedy dynasty" syndrome.

The phrase is not meant to imply that Senator Kennedy himself has been harmful to his party; on the contrary, he has earned the right to be considered one of its leading figures. He gains added stature by his decision to bow out now and thus free other aspirants from the shadow he cast as long as he remained a potential candidate. The point we make is exactly that such a shadow did exist, thanks to the persistent fascination exercised by the Kennedy name.

After the violent deaths of John and Robert Kennedy many Democrats immediately turned to young Edward as their standard bearer. He seemed virtually assured of the nomination should he choose to reach out for it. Twice he has drawn back, this time with resounding finality. It does Senator Kennedy no disservice to say that in some ways this is a healthful thing for the Democratic party.

Back to Standard Time

The abortive experiment with year 'round daylight saving time is about over. Congressional action assures that during a four-month period this winter the nation will be back on standard time. All things considered it is a good thing, though in one sense it is disappointing.

The disappointment springs from the fact that expectations for rather substantial reduction in use of electricity did not materialize. This was the main reason for the experiment last winter. Unfortunately, the energy saving was minimal — on the order of 100,300 barrels of oil daily.

Congress found itself deluged with complaints weighed heavily in the balance against the benefit of meagre energy savings. Under these circumstances it is just as well that the experiment is being abandoned.

WASHINGTON — President Ford's new staff chief, Donald Rumsfeld, won't be around the White House more than six months.

Sources in the President's confidence say he needed someone in a hurry to replace Alexander Haig, who had headed former President Nixon's White House staff.

The President, therefore, summoned Rumsfeld whom he actually had in mind to be the next Secretary of Defense. Our sources say Ford still intends to send the able Rumsfeld to preside over the Pentagon.

The President wanted to get rid of Haig, say our sources, because he held too tight a rein on the White House staff, which looked to him instead of Ford's people for their orders.

The President's plans for Rumsfeld, of course, means Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger will be dropped from the cabinet. This will be a victory of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, who has been feuding with Schlesinger over foreign military policy. WATCH ON WASTE: About 180 welfare officials gathered on exotic Frenchman's Reef in the Virgin Islands late last month to discuss the plight of the poor.

Choosing from a menu "laden with a host of superb continental specialties," they dined in lazy luxury as they talked about the hunger that is gaining in impoverished neighborhoods.

One conference session, for example, dealt with food stamp programs. It was presided over an Agriculture Department official who was flown in from Washington, $169 round trip.

When the problems of poverty became depressing, the welfare officials could escape into the coral waters for "free snorkel lessons," or on afternoon tours of the Virgin Island paradise.

The delegates came from 31 states and regions. At least 10 federal officials from the Health, Education and Welfare Department slipped down to the Virgin Islands for the conference, at a minimum cost to the taxpayers of $200 apiece, including hotel accommodations.

A spokesman for the American Public Welfare Association, which sponsored the frolic, explained to us: "We hold the conferences in a different region every year, and this was the first time for the Virgin Islands."

YOSEMITE STORY: There is more to the story of how Yosemite National Park, with scenery no Hollywood studio could duplicate, became the backdrop for the TV series "Sierra."

We published the first installment on September 15. The Music Corporation of America, we reported, had taken over the camping and catering concessions in Yosemite in late 1973.

Not long afterwards, film crews belonging to an MCA subsidiary turned up in the park to film the "Sierra" series. Although nature provided them with some of the most spectacular scenery in the world, we reported, the Hollywood hotshots tried to improve it by painting the rocks in one area.

The "Sierra" TV shows are now appearing on the NBC network, which should be good for MCA's camping and catering business in Yosemite. The program's producer, Bob Cinader, denies that the series was created to promote tourism in the park. But here, at least, are some curious coincidences:

— The series was not proposed to MCA, as usually happens, but MCA initiated it. "Somebody upstairs got the idea" for the show, Cinader acknowledged.

— The pilot show, originally titled "Park Ranger," was a sad flop. The scenery outperformed the actors, and only a bear impressed the test audiences. Yet miraculously, MCA was able to peddle the series to NBC. "They bought it in spite of the pilot," said Cinader.

— The producers had trouble completing the scripts and casting the actors. Off-duty park rangers were used as production assistants. Production costs were high, with each episode costing about $60,000 more than programs filmed on studio lots.

Whether or not MCA planned it that way, the company could make up the extra costs in the tourist business that the TV series should attract to Yosemite. Cinader's comment on this: "There is no attempt made in the show to indicate that the park is Yosemite."

SHORT REPLY: Marguerite Steed, granddaughter of Rep. Tom Steed, D-Okla., signed on as an interne last summer in the office of House Speaker Carl Albert.

In the manner of young people, she struck up a summer romance with the Speaker's son, David. Young Albert, like his father, is short in size. And Marguerite, like her grandfather, is a talker.

Congressman Steed jokingly asked his granddaughter one day what might result if a Steed should be crossed with an Albert. She retorted without hesitation: "A long-winded midget."

"Is That Thing Still Twitching?"

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

BRANDON, S.D. — The mood of despair here on the great plains has reached such a point that an economic depression of the scale of 1929 is now seen as a "real danger" by nearly one-half the voters we interviewed in this barometer community.

President Ford's much-publicized economic summit was dismissed by one voter as "just another way of doing nothing." Indeed, only 15 of 50 voters interviewed in this small eastern South Dakota community feel "more optimistic" over the future now that Mr. Ford is in the White House.

South Dakota is the battleground between Sen. George McGovern, the worst-defeated presidential nominee in history, and Vietnam war hero Leo Thorsness, his Republican opponent for the Senate. It is one measure of voter fear over the future that McGovern, not Thorsness, now holds what looks like a commanding lead.

McGovern benefits because cattle farmers west of here are desperately worried about foreclosures due to the high price of feed and the low price of beef-on-the-hoof. Thus, voters who rejected McGovern's presidential bid in his own state by 8 percentage points are turning back to him to preserve their interests in the Senate. In what may be the trend nationally, economic fears are inundating concerns of social ideology on the plains.

"We don't need a war hero in the Senate," said a butcher who voted for Richard Nixon against McGovern. "We need experience." The butcher plans to vote for McGovern this time.

Thorsness, who spent six years in a Communist prison camp after being shot down over North Vietnam in 1967, was thought by national Republican strategists to be just the ticket to take on the Democratic party's top dove. But our voter sample, taken with the help of Pat Caddell's Cambridge Survey Research polling organization, indicated strongly that the war-hero vs. war-critic scenario has gone awry.

The 50 voters interviewed gave McGovern only a bare margin of 23 with a "favorable" reaction to 19 who regard him "unfavorably." Yet McGovern demolished Thorsness in present voting intentions: 30 to 14 (with 6 undecided).

The clear reason: McGovern's experience as a 12-year Senator and Thorsness's total lack of it. "I have a lot of respect for Thorsness," a housewife and 1972 Nixon voter told us, "because he gave up a lot for his country. But they shouldn't have tried to put him up on this pedestal." She is voting for McGovern.

Our interviews in a community that matched statewide 1972 results led to this conclusion: McGovern's 1974 campaign is a mirror image of his 1972 disaster. Like Nixon in 1972, McGovern is far from universally popular. But like McGovern two years ago, Thorsness as of today is simply not credible as a U.S. Senator.

A middle-aged, motherly Democrat praised Thorsness's combat record, but asked: "What makes that qualify him for the Senate? We can't take the chance." That's what millions of voters said about McGovern's presidential ambitions: unqualified.

Moreover, our door-to-door survey in this community of 1,400 gave McGovern high marks for having "learned from his mistakes" in 1972. Those willing to express an opinion said McGovern "is back on the right track now" by a margin of 27 to 6.

Thus, McGovern ran almost 6-to-1 ahead of Thorsness in voter perception of his "ability to get things done in the Senate." In only one category — preserving a strong national defense — did Thorsness emerge over McGovern.

But national defense is sadly distant as a paramount issue in this campaign. There is only one issue: the economy, and President Ford's ability to stop inflation and recession.

Mr. Ford continues to hold an extremely high approval rating among voters here. By a score of 37 to 4, by far the highest for any politician here, Mr. Ford is still "favorably" regarded, despite angry criticism of the Nixon pardon. But, as we have discovered in other voter samples, that favorable regard will waste away unless the President produces soon.

Given President Ford's continuing procrastination on how to deal with the economy, only 6 of our 50 voters believe the economy is going to be better a year from now. Far more ominous for Mr. Ford, those who had an opinion said by a 6-to-1 margin that the Democrats "can do a better job" of managing the economy than the Republicans, even though we interviewed slightly more Republicans than Democrats.

For Mr. Ford, this means time is running out. But for McGovern, it suggests the calamity of 1972 is behind him. That is due in no small part to the inexperience of his war-hero opponent — the subject of a future column.

"I say keep the old pressure on the United States until they have to come to US for foreign aid"

Dream Scene in the Oval Office

That was some dream. A peculiar dream . . . There was the Oval Office. It was big and pristine, the gossamer off-white curtains lifting in the morning breeze. The President, slightly hunched, hands clasped behind his back, stood behind his desk looking out at the play of sun and shadow on the South Lawn.

A Secret Service man opened a door. "General Haig and the Vice President, sir." The President did not turn. "Bring them in. Ask Rose Mary to join us with her notebook." Ford and Haig came in quietly. "Sit down," the President said softly.

The door on the extreme right opened, and a middle-aged woman came in, slowly closing the door behind her, whispering, "No phone calls. N. interruptions."

Mr. Nixon sat behind the desk. Haig and Ford noticed that he was not in a jaunt mood. The face was solemn, the brown eyes hurt. He sighed. "Jerry, I apologize for postponing your trip to Hawaii. What I have to say is important and, of course, completely confidential."

Ford sat back and clasped his hands in his lap. The general negotiated a small smile. Rose Mary watched her pencil dance on a pad like a wild dervish. "Jerry, I'm going to resign."

"No!" The President shrugged, the eyes darkened with sorrow. "It's the last move left on the board. Our friends have deserted us. There aren't enough votes left—" "You have a lot of loyal friends in the House and Senate, Mr. President. I know."

The President ignored the kind words. "I told Pat and the family I am going to step down. You know me as a fighter. Everyone who has followed my career knows that I relish a good battle. But the truth is, since Monday, the deck is stacked. Hell, I have more supporters among the Southern Democrats than I have in the party."

"Now it's over, Jerry. Goldwater and Scott are crying as they nail me to the cross. So be it. Let history tell the story of one patriotic American and all that he did for his country. History takes the long view, Jerry. The only weakness in the Administration was in selecting a bunch of blockheads to run the campaign. Nothing else."

"Maybe I can persuade you—"

General Haig interrupted. "We're wasting time. The President's mind is made up. All he has to decide is when and under what circumstances he will resign."

Nixon smiled. "The best legal opinions say that I can pardon myself. But I'm not going to fall into that trap. As I step down, you step up, and God knows, Jerry, I wish you all the luck in the world."

"But—" "Hold your thought. After you're in office a few weeks, the national fever will cool down. The climate will be different. I want a solemn promise from you — in front of Al and Rose Mary — that you will issue a Presidential pardon to me. Otherwise, the deal is off."

"Pardon?" "Yes, a blanket pardon for all the acts on my part between January 20th, 1969, until now, August 9th, 1974, which could be, might be, or lend themselves to suspicion of illegality while I was President."

"Oh," said Ford, "I don't think there will be any problem there." "No?" said the President. "Are you sure? Do any of us know what Jaworski or Sirica are up to? They'll get their pound of flesh, but they may want the bare bones too."

"Under no circumstances do I want to be a defendant in any action, or even a witness." Ford rubbed his mouth with his index finger. "Gee, I don't know about that part. Suppose Bob or John or somebody subpoenas you?" The President turned his mouth down.

"You and Fred Buzhardt can figure it out. It can be done. I'll sit behind this desk until hell freezes over if you don't come up with a solution. First you pardon me. Wait for an adverse reaction. You'll get one, Jerry. That's for sure."

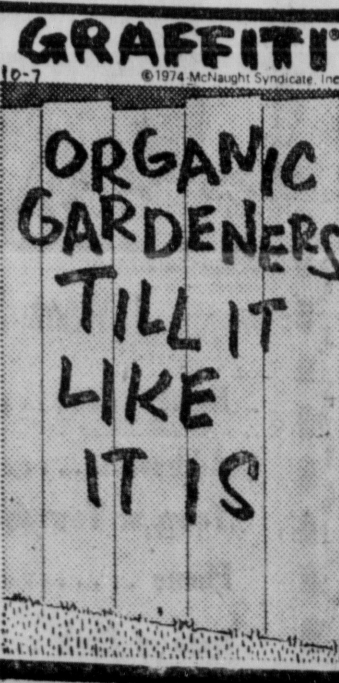

"When the media stops squawking, it might be wise to issue a blanket amnesty for all those military deserters and draft dodgers living abroad. Issue a statement. They've been punished enough. At the same time pardon all the Watergate defendants and you have it made."

"Everyone has been humiliated enough. The disgrace of it all — their poor families and children — pour it on, Jerry. Call it a gigantic act of mercy. I don't care. I just want this silly business to stop."

"I'll try." "You'll do better than that." "Okay. I promise." "Good. And remember, all White House papers, including the tapes, are my personal property."

"Now wait a minute—" "You wait a minute. All the . . . tapes . . . come . . . to . . . me . . . at San Clemente. Understood?" "Yes sir."

It was some dream. Must have been the cottage cheese and onions . . .

UCCC Offering Evening Quilting Course

Mrs. Ruth Culver of Kingston is the instructor for a credit-free course in quilting being offered by Ulster County Community College on six Thursday nights, starting Oct. 17, on the Stone Ridge campus.

The course will include a historical sketch of the quilt-making heritage, and students will make a number of usable pieces in the mediums of patchwork, applique and crazy quilts.

Registrations for this course, which will enable students to become part of an art medium now sweeping the country, are due on or before Oct. 10. Associate Dean of Faculty Ronald A. Koster announces that in addition to mail registrations, the Office for Continuing Education, located in the Clinton Administration Building on the Stone Ridge campus, is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and from 6 to 9 p.m. for personal registration.

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST
© 1974 The Emily Post Institute, Inc.

Dear Mrs. Post: I'm rather late in life, my husband and I recently married. Neither of us had much social life. Now we would like to begin to invite friends to our new home. We are both still working, but would like to have some social activity, too. Is there any way to invite guests over after work, but only for an hour or two? Must we serve dinner at that time? In short, we would like to entertain, but very simply. What can we do?

Dorothy
Dear Dorothy: You simply cannot invite people to your house at 6:00 or 6:30 and not offer them dinner. And you cannot, with grace or warmth, serve drinks, dinner and enjoy after-dinner coffee and conversation in an hour or two. An invitation to dinner automatically includes at least some of the evening.

Your best solution is to either invite friends for a cocktail from 5:30 to 7:30, if you serve liquor in your home. If you do not, ask them to come at a later hour for dessert and coffee. Both of these invitations imply a short visit, and people know they are only expected to remain for an hour or two.

Dear Mrs. Post: Recently I sent a card to my son and his family. I addressed it as follows: "Mr. John Smith and family." His wife was quite upset because I didn't address it to "Mr. and Mrs. John Smith and family" and said that it was a direct insult to her. Will you please tell me if I was wrong?

Mrs. Collins
Dear Mrs. Collins: I'm

sorry, but you were wrong. A wife is always included in this form of address. The envelope should have read "Mr. and Mrs. John Smith and family."

Dear Mrs. Post: How is a married woman's name shown on a certificate or document given in recognition of volunteer service — Mrs. Robert Smith or Mary Allen Smith? This seems to come up quite often. Our organization would appreciate your comments.

Jane

Dear Jane: A volunteer worker does not usually have a "professional" name and is known on the job by her married name. Therefore, any certificate or award given to her would be made out to "Mrs. Robert Smith."

But if she is always spoken of and to as Mary Smith in connection with her work the award would be more appropriately inscribed with her own first name and married last name or to "Mary Allen Smith."

What is your most puzzling etiquette problem? To the sender of the most interesting question that I receive each week, I will send a free copy of Emily Post's Etiquette. The question chosen and its answer will be published in this column. Send your question to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of this newspaper, and don't forget to include your name and address.

PAW Productions Will Open on Friday

Performing Arts of Woodstock is now readying "Bricks" and "The Interview," two one-act plays by local playwright Ron Radice, to open October 11 at Town Hall.

The cast, including Sarah Mulligan, Larry Shuffelt, Alphonse Apalategui, John LeFever, Martin Henderson and Jerry Guess, will be under the direction of Alphonse Apalategui.

PAW's successful association with Mr. Radice in the past has included his "Pickpocket", which went on to acclaim in New York City and on tour, and "Holdout." The young playwright, who lives in Kingston, is stimulated by his experience as an actor to create experimental plays, and he has since gone on to write film scripts, notably "Shootout on Tinker Street," soon to be presented.

The two plays deal with the menace of outside intrusions into the ordinary lives of average people, and how these people manipulate each other to gain control of their environment. The dramas are built on the development of their fears and of the dangers and tensions which must finally find release.

The audience is expected to participate in the formation of the drama by confronting the conflicts and defining them, so that each individual can expect to find different meanings in the plays. "Bricks" and "The Interview" will play at Town Hall, Woodstock three weekends: Oct. 11, 12, 13; 19, 20; and 25, 26, 27, at 8 p.m. Reservations may be made by contacting PAW.

Miss Gladys Shultis Is Recent Bride

Miss Gladys Veronica Shultis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Shultis of West Hurley, became the bride of Jack Hockx, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacobus Hockx of Kerhonkson, at Trinity Methodist Church. The Rev. Thomas R. Smoot officiated.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore an Empire style gown of Chantilly lace made with mandarin collar and long sleeves. A satin ribbon encircled the waistline and the skirt swept back into a chapel train. Her three tiered veil was secured to a crystal crown. She carried roses and baby's breath.

Mrs. Frances Grant as matron of honor wore a pink satin gown. Cousins, Delores Banks of Esopus, Sherry Cogswell of Ulster Park, and Kathy Banks, were bridal attendants. Barbara Shultis was flower girl for her sister.

Ernest Weiss of Saugerties was best man. Ushers were John Shultis, brother of the bride, Ronald Hayes of Hurley and John Wolf of Kingston. Roger Galewaler of Rosendale was ringbearer.

A reception was given at the Moose Club. Mr. Hockx, who is originally from Holland, was graduated from the DeWitt Clinton High School, Bronx, and is a clerk at the post office. They will make their home in Lake Katrine.

The event is being sponsored by the Stockade Committee in conjunction with Kingston's Fall Festival celebration.

Spend Three Minutes... It Could Save Your Life

DEAR READERS: If statistics bore you, please read this anyway. The information may come in handy if you're ever on a quiz show. It could even save your life: Q. When was the Chicago fire?

A. October 9, 1871. Exactly 103 years ago this week. But let's get a little more current, shall we? Did you know that last year in the U.S.A. 11,900 people died in 2,815,000 fires? And that in Canada, there were 830 deaths in 78,900 fires? Even more tragically, a large percentage of deaths were children, elderly persons and invalids who had been left alone for just a few minutes.

The chief causes of fires, in order of the toll taken, were:

- 1.) smoking, 2.) electrical wiring, 3.) heating and cooking equipment, 4.) children playing with matches, 5.) open flames and sparks, 6.) flammable liquids, 7.) suspected arson, 8.) chimneys and flues, 9.) lightning, 10.) spontaneous ignition.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

The total fire loss in 1973 was an estimated 3 billion, one million dollars in the U.S.A. and 254 million dollars in Canada.

Now for some tips that could save your life:

- Be sure your cigarette is out. Matches, too. And never leave matches and lighters within the reach of children.
- Don't run cords under rugs or over radiators where they may get damaged. And replace a cord if it is frayed.
- Never leave small children alone in the house. Not even for a few minutes.
- Have your wiring and electrical installations done by a professional.
- Store oily rags and paints in a cool place in tightly sealed metal containers.

— Never use flammable liquids for dry cleaning indoors.

— Never smoke in bed.

— Have a fire drill in your home to be sure everyone knows what to do in case of fire.

Remember, fire extinguishers put out 97 per cent of all the fires on which they are used. Most large fires started as small fires. So invest in a compact, easy-to-use fire extinguisher and keep it handy in your kitchen, or for a sport and buy one for your cottage, car, boat, and the back bedroom, too.

NOW, in case of fire:

Most fires occur between midnight and 6 a.m., so always sleep with your bedroom door closed. If you suspect fire, feel the top of the door. If it's hot, don't open it. Escape through the window. But first, alert the rest of the household.

If you can't open the window, break it with a chair. Cover the rough edges with a blanket and sit on the window ledge with one leg hanging outside and one inside, and wait for help.

The phone number of your fire department should be taped on every telephone. If it isn't, don't fumble around trying to call them. Get out — and call from a neighbor's house.

If you live in an apartment building, use the stairway. Don't take a chance on the elevator. If it fails, you're trapped.

Once out, stay out. No treasure — not even the family pet — is worth risking a human life.

It took less than three minutes to read this column. Was it worth it? I hope so. God bless. Have a good day! ABBY

DEAR ABBY: The person who wrote to you saying that big noses and flat bosoms are "in" is out of her (or his) mind.

Since when is a well-developed nose more desirable than a well-developed bosom?

If a woman wants to look like Barbra Streisand, I might agree, but if she wants to please a man, the bosom has it over the nose any day.

When a man turns around to get a second look at a girl, you can be sure it's not her NOSE he's looking at.

And who ever heard of a movie star getting silicone implants in her NOSE?

What do you suppose would happen to Playboy magazine if they showed nothing but pictures of girls with big noses?

I think I'm fairly representative of the average guy, and for my part, if a gal is stacked, I wouldn't even notice her nose.

Mason Urges Support for RR Act

HOBART. Mason said, "To accept the economy." State Senator Edwyn E. recommendations of the Federal government and abandon the 1974 Rail Preservation Bond Act on the November ballot.

The Secretary of the U.S. Department of Transportation has issued a report citing 1,800 miles of railroad trackage scattered throughout New York State as "potentially excess" and recommended the state abandon railroad service over these lines.

Mason continued: "Should the bond issue be defeated, the loss facing the agricultural and commercial sectors of our state would be tremendous. Enormous acreage of farm land would be jeopardized without a strong rail transportation system to get farm products to market quickly."

The bond issue is part of a total railroad program passed by the 1974 Legislature. It is expected the issue would be 30 year bonds sold over a period of six years at an average interest rate of 6 per cent.

"I join with Governor Malcolm Wilson and the Citizens Public Expenditure Survey (CPES) in urging passage of the bond issue," Mason said. "The loss of money and jobs in farm communities is unnecessary because the Bond Act is the proper and sensible alternative to abandoning 1,800 miles of sorely needed rail lines," he concluded.

Sierra Club Favors Bond

NEW YORK CITY In the general election in the State in November, would provide $250 million for capital New York State subdivision facilities for rail freight and the national conservation passenger lines in the state.

organization, announced today its support for the Railthe chapter noted that this Preservation Bond Act of 1974, particular bond issue would be The bond issue, to be voted on adequate to cope with the large needs engendered by years of neglect of the state's rail system.

"We view this as a welcome first step in a realignment of our state's transportation priorities away from highway construction and toward the more environmentally benign mode of rail transportation," said Philip Hansen, Atlantic Chapter Chairman. "We hope that a favorable response to this issue at the polls will signal to the Department of Transportation that the citizens of

New York support the concept of the overall rail improvement program of which this bond issue should be but a small part. We trust that DOT will begin to fund a rail improvement program from its regular annual budget, which prior to this year has been devoted almost completely to highways.

Rail freight and passenger transportation uses at most 1/4 the amount of energy per ton mile or per passenger mile as truck or automobile transport.

Additionally, the rail system is basically already in place;

unlike the case of highway construction, the destruction of our dwindling resources of open land and housing is unnecessary. It is for these reasons that the Sierra Club supports the 1974 bond issue after having opposed the 1971 to the Department of Transportation and 1973 Transportation Bond Act," Hansen stated.

Hansen expressed the Sierra Club's hope that in the near future the Department of Transportation would come forward with a draft master plan for the state's rail system, and "after appropriate hearings and comments from citizens and groups such as ours, we can work with DOT towards its realization."

Gilman Wants Mortgage Fund

WASHINGTON, D.C.

"Continuing my fight for new housing and new construction jobs, I am proposing the creation of a Federal home

mortgage fund," Rep. Benjamin A. Gilman (28th District)

recently announced.

Gilman introduced legislation in the House creating a Federal Home Mortgage Fund to draw upon the Treasury for loans for both new and existing housing, totaling up to $10 billion a year.

"This money would be available for purchase of homes with prices ranging up to $45,000," Gilman said, "at an annual interest rate of 8 1/2 per cent."

Noting the rapid increase in population in the Mid-Hudson region, Gilman stated: "Despite the dire need for new housing, the lack of mortgage money, along with soaring interest rates, has brought the housing industry to a standstill, causing severe unemployment through the building construction trades."

Gilman noted that he has introduced several other legislative measures aimed at boosting construction, including a bill exempting savings interest from the income tax.

"Unless the Ways and Means Committee stops bottling up these important legislative initiatives," Gilman said, "we may not have any effective anti-inflation legislation out of Congress this session."

Gilman urged the Banking and Currency Committee, which will consider the mortgage legislation, "to expedite its action in order to provide a realistic solution for our rapid growth regions."

ITT Cites 'Serious Errors' In Anderson's Column on Chile

WASHINGTON, D.C. — International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation (ITT) has accused Columnist Jack Anderson of "serious errors in fact" in a column published Oct. 2 in the Daily Freeman concerning ITT's relations with the former Allende regime in Chile.

ITT officials are demanding a correction based on the record of Senate hearings held by Senator Frank Church.

ITT's telegram to Anderson is as follows:

"Your column distributed for publication on Oct. 2, 1974 contains serious factual errors in its statements concerning International Telephone and Telegraph Corp., its employment of John Ragan and the alleged approaches to the Chilean Military in 1970.

"First, the publication of John Ragan's activities in Chile is an old story and omits a key fact. ITT informed the Associated Press on Sept. 18, 1973 in response to a request from the AP Washington Bureau, that ITT had sent Mr. Ragan to Chile at Dr. Allende's request, not merely the invitation of the Army and police, as your column states.

"ITT told the AP then that during Dr. Allende's first few months in office, he became convinced his communications were being compromised. He asked the Chilean Telephone Company if it could provide him with the technical assistance to determine the extent of the bugging and to clean it up since the Chilean Telephone Company didn't have this capability but wanted to respond. ITT forwarded the request to world headquarters. Our security director, who handles such matters, reviewed several outside consultants and selected Mr. Ragan. Your own column testifies to his reputation in that field.

"ITT did not learn that Ragan was working for the Republicans in 1970 until three years later.

"The second and most serious error in the column is the distorted reversal of your first ITT Chile column in 1972. You say 'But as we reported on March 21, 1972 ITT made approaches to elect members of the armed forces in an attempt to have them lead some sort of uprising in late 1970 only a few months before ITT and the Chilean Army helped arrange Ragan's visit.'

"This is not true, as a reading of the Church Committee transcript would have shown. ITT made no approaches of any kind whatsoever to the Chilean military at any time. Your apparent evidence for the statement is a memo for ITT vice president William Merriam to CIA director John A. McCone. In it Merriam discusses what he learned of the activities of the Central Intelligence Agency, which apparently included approaches by that agency, to the military.

"The fact that ITT would comply with a request from Dr. Allende to its very vulnerable Chilean subsidiary should not be puzzling at all.

"The decision to send Mr. Ragan to Chile to assist Dr. Allende was consistent with the Chilean Telephone Company's policy and ITT's policy of cooperation with the Allende regime, until its properties were expropriated without compensation.

"Nothing else can be inferred from it, and the attempt of your Oct. 2 column to do more is completely in error and without justification in fact or in spirit.

"I think a correction based on the record of the Church hearings is in order."

The telegram is signed by Robert H. Sykes, director of information for ITT.

How to Pick Sleepers in Rare Plates

NORTHBROOK, Ill. — A successful art dealer in this Chicago suburb has announced a new, easy way to start collecting rare porcelain plates with high resale potential.

According to Thomas Gilmore II, president of this dealership, one exceptional plate priced at $25 in 1965 now brings $1,050, and another selling at $10 in 1969 now sells for $245.

Mr. Gilmore says, "Since many plates do not increase in value, amateurs often make serious mistakes." He offers a free report telling what to look for, what to pay, when to sell, and much more.

To get your free report with no obligation, just send your name, address, and zip code to Thomas Gilmore, Bradford Galleries, 426-0 Bradford Place, Northbrook, Illinois 60062. A postcard will do. Because of limited quantities, please mail your request before October 19, 1974.

Henze Chairs Seminar

By TIM SCHUSTER

POUGHKEEPSIE Clifford A. Henze, board chairman of the Heritage Savings Bank in Kingston, served as moderator for a panel that discussed private financing of housing and commercial development last Friday afternoon on the campus of Marist College in Poughkeepsie.

Henze was joined on the panel by John L. Hettrick, vice chairman of the Marine Midland Bank of Buffalo, Garry Munson, urban affairs director for the Savings Banks Association of New York State, and John Taylor, executive director of the Poughkeepsie Area Development Fund.

A second panel, chaired by Henry G. Williams, chairman of the State Office of Planning Services, had to be shifted to the afternoon because of rain. The workshop, originally scheduled for Trinity non-profit groups, and Munson described the collective action of the Savings Banks Association, included S. William Green, regional administrator of the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Linda Myers of the State Urban Development Corporation office in New York City, Frank Viscusi of the Division of Housing and Community Renewal, and Brandon Smith, executive director of the New York Job Development Agency. They discussed public financing of housing and commercial development.

The two discussions were part of a two-day "Actionplan" workshop in which participants planned for the needs of an actual American city — in this case, Traverse City, Mich. — Hettrick described several successful projects in the Buffalo area. Taylor described Poughkeepsie projects financed by private foundation and several non-profit groups, and Munson described the collective action of the Savings Banks Association, included S. William Green, regional administrator of the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Linda Henze said that one complication in the tight money market was the tendency of individuals to seek out tax-free municipal bonds and other tax shelters for themselves instead of depositing funds in the bank to be redeposited for them. "They are doing it for themselves," he noted.

Program to rehabilitate one-and two-family houses for sale to qualified bidders and briefly described the uptown and downtown urban renewal projects. He said there was no change in sight in the tight money market now prevailing. "How soon it loosens up is anybody's guess," he said.

Munson warned that banks no longer made "public relations" loans. "The days when you could get 'conscience money' loans are over," he said. "Banks want to make loans that give competitive returns."

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened higher today on the New York Stock Exchange in light trading.

The Dow Jones industrial average had climbed 1.25 to 585.81 a few minutes after the opening bell. Advances led declines 193 to 62, among the 371 issues traded.

In the past 11 sessions the widely followed blue chip indicator has lost 89.49 points. The erosion of confidence on Wall Street apparently stems from a lack of solid measures to fight inflation, the nation's No. 1 economic problem.

Burglary Probed

Town of Ulster Constables are investigating a burglary that occurred early Saturday at the Town of Ulster Landfill site off Ulster Avenue Mall. Some tools, a radio and about $10-$20 in cash was stolen from the garage at the landfill site. Some of the tools and the radio have been recovered, according to police.

Auto Executives Hope for Good '75

DETROIT (AP) — Independent analysts forecast little improvement in car sales in 1975, but their predictions conflict with those offered by the automakers themselves.

Top executives at General Motors, Ford and Chrysler recently estimated that 1975 model sales, including imports, would be between 10 and 10.5 million cars, up from 1974 model sales of 9.6 million.

However, Wall Street analysts forecast far fewer sales in the coming 12-month period. Their predictions range as low as 9.3 million for the 1975 calendar year, compared to 9.4 million for calendar 1974.

"The product this year is not smashing. The cars look the same," one independent analyst says. "Gas mileage is a little better, but 11 or 13 miles per gallon is nothing to write home about."

These pessimistic sales predictions are based partly on expectations there will be little real growth in the Gross National Product in 1975 — perhaps a percentage point or two. Stagnation of the GNP, a measure of the goods and services produced in the United States in a given year, means little change in the amount of money consumers have available to spend on a new car.

Consumers also face sticker prices that have mushroomed about 20 per cent in the past 14 months and higher gasoline prices.

Detroit auto dealers indicate sales of new models are moving slowly, with many prospective buyers taking a wait-and-see attitude.

Imports are expected to hold onto about 15 per cent of the U.S. market, despite a surge to nearly 18 per cent in September. Analysts say imports indulged in something close to a "fire sale" last month in an effort to clear large inventories.

Price increases averaging almost $1,000 per vehicle are expected to help the makers improve their profits picture following record declines in the first quarter of the year.

Dodgers Lead Pirates 2-0

Penguin Stands Like an Eagle

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — They call Ron Cey "The Penguin," but in the eyes of the Los Angeles Dodgers he stands more like an eagle today. Cey, whose squatty 5-foot-9, 185-pound frame certainly belies his ability as one of baseball's premier run producers, turned in one of the best hitting performances in National League playoff history Sunday and because of it collected four hits, including a in three games to wrap up the NL flag.

Left-hander Doug Rau, a 13-game winner during the regular season, will try to get the Dodgers a sweep of the series Tuesday at Los Angeles. He will be opposed by Bruce Kison, a right-hander who posted a 9-8 record.

It was not too surprising to those who had seen Cey play during the regular season that he should emerge as the hero of game No. 2, but it was a bit strange to Cey himself. He had been so ill the past two weeks he was beginning to wonder if he could contribute anything to the Dodger effort.

Saturday, for example, he made two errors in the field for the first time this season and went hitless in three at-bats. And, in his first at-bat Sunday he popped out with the bases loaded.

"I've had a virus the last two weeks and was not feeling up to par," said Cey. "I didn't miss any playing time but developed an ulcerated tongue and didn't eat. I lost about six pounds. It's hard to say if it's significant, but I switched to a lighter bat today, from 34 ounces to 32. When you get tired you have a tendency to uppercute. I was much quicker today."

After failing in his first at-bat, Cey was unstoppable. He homered off the leftfield foul pole leading off the fourth, doubled in the sixth, triggered the decisive three-run eighth with another double and singled in the ninth. He joins Pittsburgh's Bob Robertson as the only National League players to collect four hits in a playoff game.

"I think he's a better player than people give him credit for," Dodgers Manager Walter Alton said of Cey. "He has power, he runs better than he looks like he's running and at third base he's good. Saturday was the worst I've seen him play at third."

Cey agreed with his manager about his performance in Saturday's game, which was won by the Dodgers 3-0 behind Don Sutton's four-hit pitching. "I had a feeling that I was the worst player in the game," said Cey, who drove in 97 runs and played splendidly at third during the regular season. "I even changed gloves today, too."

It wasn't only Cey's hitting that ruined the Pirates Sunday, however. Once again the league's most potent offense failed to produce as Andy Messersmith and Mike Marshall combined on an eighth-inning homer, which was the Pirates' last hit.

The Pirates, however, aren't ready to give up. "People have laughed at us when we were down before and that helped pick us up and come back," said Willie Stargell. "There's an awful lot of pride on this ballclub. Collectively, we just have to call on our pride and remember our past performances. They have to win three, not two."

Weaver and Dark Disagree On Question of Momentum

By JOE SARGIS

UPI Sports Writer

OAKLAND (UPI) — Baseball players in general and managers in particular like to talk about momentum, that undefinable emotional state they claim decides championships.

In the first two games of the American League playoffs here, which the A's and Orioles split, both managers, Al Dark of Oakland and Earl Weaver of Baltimore, talked about momentum.

Weaver claimed his club had it coming into the playoffs because the Orioles had won their last nine regular season games to clinch the East.

Then Sunday, after the A's had beaten the Orioles, 5-0, behind the five-hit pitching of lefty Ken Holtzman, Dark claimed his club now had the momentum.

"I think winning the second game of any short series is the most important," said Dark, "because it gives you momentum."

Weaver didn't exactly buy that.

"All it means is that we are now 1-1 and the club that wins two of the next three will play in the World Series," he said.

The day before, though, after the Orioles had opened the playoffs with a 6-3 victory, Weaver said "momentum is on our side."

No matter, the series is squared at one victory apiece and now the scene shifts to Baltimore where the next three games are scheduled to be played, starting Tuesday with Vida Blue pitching for Oakland and Jim Palmer for Baltimore.

Sunday's game wasn't as one-sided as the final score would indicate. Lefty Dave McNally matched Holtzman almost serve for serve through three innings in a scoreless tie. Then in the fourth, Oakland got a break when sure-handed second baseman Bobby Grich dropped a high foul popup behind first by Sal Bando.

On the very next pitch, the Oakland strongman lined a homer over the left field fence. It stayed 1-0 until the sixth when Billy North walked to open the inning, went to second on a wild pitch and scored easily on a two-out triple off the right centerfield fence by Joe Rudi.

The blow finished McNally as Weaver rushed in. Wayne Garland, Bob Reynolds and Grant Jackson from the bullpen

Spleen Injury Kills Grider

FRANKLIN Mass. (AP)—A senior defensive back for the Dean Junior College Football team was injured while assisting on a tackle in the first period of a game Saturday and died several hours later.

A spokesman for the school said Thomas A. "Butchie" Williams, 19, of Ossining, N.Y., died at Woonsocket (R.I.) Hospital where he was taken from the field with a ruptured spleen.

The fatal injury occurred during a game between Dean and Hudson Valley Community College of Troy, N.Y. Williams, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Williams Jr., was a physical education major and also a member of the school's basketball and baseball teams.

A college memorial service was scheduled for next week at a date to be announced.

in an effort to keep the A's within range on the hopes that Holtzman might crack in the late innings.

Holtzman, who retired 16 batters in a row from the third through two out in the eighth, did crack a bit when Enos Cabell and Andy Etchebarren singled. But Holtzman got pinch-hitter Curt Motton on a roller to first and seemed home free.

Not that he needed it, but the A's gave him three insurance runs in the bottom of the eighth, again as a result of a break.

Gene Tenace walked after two out and stole second while the Baltimore infield played back on Claudell Washington.

The rookie outfielder, who played right in place of hobbling Reggie Jackson, hit a sharp grounder to short but Frank Baker, spiked above the left knee earlier in the inning as he tagged out pinch-runner Herb Washington on a steal attempt, booted it for an error.

That brought Ray Fosse to the plate and he jumped at the chance with a long homer to left that finished the Orioles and evened the series.

"It just turned out not being our day," moaned Weaver. "We wanted both games here. How else can you see it? We didn't play bad ball. Two errors were the big plays."

After Palmer on Tuesday, Weaver will pitch Mike Cuellar, the opening game winner in game four, with McNally or Ross Grimsley for the fifth game, if it goes that far. Dark will follow Blue with Jim Hunter, who lost to Cuellar on Saturday, with Holtzman coming back for the fifth game.

Baker took a couple of stitches on his cut after Sunday's game and should be ready for backup duty behind Mark Belanger if needed. Jackson, who pulled a hamstring muscle late in the season, was the designated hitter Sunday and probably will fill the same role on Tuesday.

After failing in his first at-bat, Cey was unstoppable. He homered off the leftfield foul pole leading off the fourth, doubled in the sixth, triggered the decisive three-run eighth with another double and singled in the ninth. He joins Pittsburgh's Bob Robertson as the only National League players to collect four hits in a playoff game.

Cey agreed with his manager about his performance in Saturday's game, which was won by the Dodgers 3-0 behind Don Sutton's four-hit pitching.

"I had a feeling that I was the worst player in the game," said Cey, who drove in 97 runs and played splendidly at third during the regular season.

It wasn't only Cey's hitting that ruined the Pirates Sunday, however. Once again the league's most potent offense failed to produce as Andy Messersmith and Mike Marshall combined on an eighth-inning homer, which was the Pirates' last hit.

The Pirates, however, aren't ready to give up. "People have laughed at us when we were down before and that helped pick us up and come back," said Willie Stargell.

"There's an awful lot of pride on this ballclub. Collectively, we just have to call on our pride and remember our past performances. They have to win three, not two."

'Money' Games Never Throw Ken Holtzman

OAKLAND (UPI) — Oakland pitcher Ken Holtzman forgets about the regular season when he enters a playoff series, but he doesn't let the "money" games throw him.

"It's like a regular job, the veteran left-hander mumbled as he sat exhausted in front of his locker after the A's 5-0 victory over Baltimore Sunday evening.

Holtzman, who has mentioned possible retirement after 10 years in the big leagues, said he has put that thought out of his mind for the time being. He said it's the game of the moment that concerns him.

Holtzman said that, when he went to the mound in the first inning, "I was going to throw as long and as hard as I could. I wasn't thinking of the results."

A reporter noted he had trouble with the Orioles in the regular season. The record books show he was 1-3 against Baltimore and his earned run average was a hefty 5.04.

"I didn't pitch that bad," he replied. "Our defense had trouble." And as an afterthought he said, "Anyway, other teams give me trouble."

Holtzman, who was 19-17 for the regular season, said, "The playoffs is a new year."

Holtzman said he was having trouble with his control in the early innings against the Orioles Sunday. Despite this the Orioles were unable to mount a serious threat.

To combat the lack of control he resorted to more off-speed pitches. This kept Baltimore from taking charge. Holtzman said all his pitches were going where he wanted them in the end.

He got an added boost before the game when Manager Alvin Dark in consultation with owner Charles O. Finley and the other A's coaches decided to start Ray Fosse behind the plate.

Dark said Holtzman always preferred Fosse.

It worked. Fosse got three hits including a three-run homer.

Fosse also said his hitting has been good ever since he started using Jesus Alou's bat.

Finley, who appeared on the scene while the catcher was being interviewed, shouted: "It was the Fosse swing."

Regardless of what did it, the homer was a shot of adrenalin for Holtzman.

"It got me so up I gave up hits in the ninth," Holtzman said.

The Mercurys managed their second straight one-point victory in the Greater Kingston Exchange Club's Junior Football League Friday to remain in a three-way tie for the league lead after two weeks of the season, but it took a big fourth quarter by the Mercurys to pull it out.

Mark Naccarato and Tim Murphy tallied touchdowns, and Steve Ulrich ran the extra point in a come-from-behind rally that lifted the Mercurys to a 13-12 win over the Titans.

In other games, the Titans and the Atlas both won by big scores and remained unscathed upon to share the league lead. The Titans stomped the Agendas, 25-0 in Friday's contest, while the Atlas bombed the Apollos, 27-0 in a Sunday battle.

Terry McWeeny blasted over from one yard out to give the Titans a 6-0 lead in the first period, and that advantage looked even better when after two scoreless periods Dave Jordan scampered 25 yards for another Saturn TD and a 12-point lead.

The Mercurys, however, refused to give up and got on the board when Naccarato grabbed a short pass and went 30 yards for a score. Ulrich ran the extra point, and that proved to be decisive when the Mercurys scored their final touchdown on a drive capped by Murphy's one yard run.

The Titans were never in danger as three long touchdowns left the Agendas in the dust. Bill Mahoney began the rout with a 60 first period run that he ran on extra point after Peoples ended the quarter with a 34 yard sprint to end zone.

Peoples added to the bulge with scoring bursts of 47 yards in the third quarter and 15 yards in the final period.

Gene Mitchell also scored in the second quarter, going five yards as Jackson ran that conversion. Bob Ferraro ran two yards for the final Atlas touchdown in the third period.

Vince Ferraro and Jim Brown added extra points to the total.

GOOD FOR TWO — Batting star of playoff game No. 2, the Dodgers' Ron Cey, doubles in the sixth inning in Pittsburgh Sunday. Cey hit a homer, two doubles and a single to lead Los Angeles out to a 2-0 lead in the best-of-five series. (UPI)

Like a Good Manager Earl Is Looking Ahead

OAKLAND (UPI) — Like all good managers, Baltimore's Earl Weaver is looking ahead not only to the next game Tuesday, but also to the fourth and, if necessary, fifth game of the American League playoffs which will be played on the Orioles' home field.

After seeing the Oakland A's even the best-of-five series at 1-1 Sunday on a 5-0, five-hitter by Ken Holtzman, Weaver said his next two starters, Jim Palmer and Mike Cuellar, are set with 18-game winner Ross Grimsley ready to be thrown into the breach.

And the always-thinking Weaver also noted that Oakland's rotation calls for Vida Blue, Jim Hunter and Holtzman again. If the series goes that far, it's going to work to Baltimore's advantage, Weaver predicted.

"We've still got our two guys," he said. "Holtzman's going to have to come back with three days rest. He doesn't like that, does he?"

Naturally, Weaver came into Oakland with two straight victories in mind.

Baltimore won the first game, 6-3, but Holtzman was too much in the second.

"We wanted both games here," Weaver said. "How else can you see it? We're tied one-and-one now. Whoever wins two out of three goes to the World Series. That's what it

Cards and Patriots Are for Real

BY JOE CARNICELLI

For the first few weeks, winning was an experience. Now it's becoming common-place for the New England Patriots and the St. Louis Cardinals.

The two clubs, both picked to finish near the bottom of their divisions, continued to rate as pro football's biggest stories as they ran their records to 4-0 Sunday with impressive victories.

New England, which numbers Super Bowl champion Miami and powerhouse Los Angeles among its victims, annihilated the winless Baltimore Colts 42-3, even pulling its first team midway through the third period.

And St. Louis, trailing 9-0 at halftime, erupted for 24 points in the third period to swamp the San Francisco 49ers 34-9. Jim Plunkett, who left the game in the third period, threw three touchdown passes, two of them to Reggie Rucker, as the Patriots took a 21-3 lead at the half and then tacked on 14 more points in the third period to turn the game into a rout and ruin Joe Thomas' head coaching debut.

Thomas, the Colts' general manager, took over the head coaching job last Sunday when Howard Schnellenberger was fired.

Plunkett, who now has nine touchdowns passes this season, hit Rucker with a 69-yard scoring pass on the third play of the game and flanker Darryl Stingley ran 23 yards for another score. Mack Herron's five-yard run made it 21-0 before Toni Linhart's 27-yard field goal gave Baltimore its only points.

Plunkett threw four yards to Sam Cunningham and 16 to Rucker before retiring and John Tarver added the last Patriots' win over Miami (34-24) to make the players believe.

St. Louis, meanwhile, got its biggest boost from two of its smallest players, Terry Metcalf and Mel Gray. Metcalf (5-10, 185) scored on a 24-yard run and Gray (5-9, 175) caught a 57-yard TD pass from Jim Hart to put the Cardinals ahead to stay and then took a 59-yard TD pass to break it wide open.

Hart also passed four yards to Dooney Anderson for a TD and Jim Bakken added two field goals. Joe Reed's 58-yard pass to Gene Washington accounted for the 49er TD.

Thomas, who has a monumental task before him, said the Colts "made early mistakes that killed us. The big thing was we didn't make any third down plays and they did. We need a game like the Patriots' win over Miami (34-24) to make the players believe."

In other National Football League action Sunday, Minnesota overtook Dallas 23-21, Cincinnati downed Washington 28-17, Oakland routed Cleveland 40-24, Buffalo trampled Green Bay 27-7, Atlanta edged the New York Giants 14-7, Pittsburgh squeezed past Houston 13-7, Chicago trimmed New Orleans 24-10, Denver topped Kansas City 17-14, Los Angeles dumped Detroit 16-13 and Philadelphia beat San Diego 13-7. The New York Jets are at Miami tonight.

Vikings 23, Cowboys 21

Minnesota remained the only other unbeaten team as Fred Cox kicked a 27-yard field goal that barely went through the uprights with one second left to defeat Dallas. The kick, Cox' third of the game, came after Calvin Hill put Dallas ahead on an eight-yard run with 2:26 left. Fran Tarkenton threw TD passes of 66 and 13 yards to Chuck Foreman for Minnesota while Roger Staubach had TD passes of 58 yards to Golden Richards and five to Walt Garrison for Dallas, now 1-3.

Bengals 28, Redskins 17

Lemar Parrish scored on a 90-yard punt return and a 47-yard return of a fumble in Cincinnati's win over Washington. Ken Anderson threw a 24-yard TD pass to Isaac Curtis and Boobie Clark ran three yards for another TD for the Bengals, now 3-1. Sonny Jurgensen relieved Bill Kilmer in the last period and threw TD passes of four yards to Moses Denison and 22 to Jerry Smith for the Redskins, now 2-2.

Raiders 40, Browns 24

Ken Stabler's three TD passes led Oakland past Cleveland. After the Browns took a 10-0 lead, Stabler threw 11 yards to Fred Biletnikoff, 45 to Clarence Davis and 10 to Cliff Branch. Davis also scored on a one-yard plunge while Charles Hall returned an interception 29 yards for one Browns TD and Hugh McKinnis ran 44 yards for another.

Bills 27, Packers 7

Jim Braxton scored on three short runs and Joe Ferguson passed nine yards to Ahmad Rashad for another score as Buffalo trounced Green Bay. MacArthur Lane ran three yards for the Packers' only score.

Steelers 13, Oilers 7

Preston Pearson ran nine yards for the deciding TD early in the fourth period as Pittsburgh overcame stubborn Houston. Billy Johnson ran 47 yards for an Oilers TD as Houston clung to a 7-6 lead before Pearson's score.

Bears 24, Saints 10

Gary Huff ran a yard for one TD and threw 39 yards to Bo Rafter for another, sparking Chicago past New Orleans. Ken Grandberry had an 11-yard TD run for the Bears while Archie Manning passed eight yards to Alvin Maxon for the lone Saint TD.

Broncos 17, Chiefs 14

Rookie Jon Keyworth scored twice on short bursts in the second half as Denver beat Kansas City for its first win. Bobby Bell had a 28-yard interception return for the Chiefs.

Rams 16, Lions 13

John Hadl, who had his 2,000th career completion, threw four yards to Bob Klein as Los Angeles jumped to a 16-0 lead and then held off Detroit's last period rally to win. Bill Munson had TD passes of 34 yards to Ron Jessie and one yard to Charlie Sanders for the Lions.

Eagles 13, Chargers 7

Defensive tackle Bill Dunstan returned a fumble 46 yards for a touchdown and Tommy Sullivan plunged a yard to lead Philadelphia past San Diego. Dan Fouts had a five-yard TD pass to Gary Garrison for the Chargers.

You Couldn't Tell Winners From Losers

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — from the Falcons' 43, Brown, didn't do anything offensively, Atlanta's weak side safety, Arnsperger said.

Atlanta's other score came on a 15-yard pass from quarterback Rhodes, snared the ball and scampers 59 yards unchallenged for the tie-breaking touchdown that put Atlanta out front for good.

Snead, largely ineffective throughout the second half and replaced by Jim Del Gaudio in the fourth period, had passed to Rhodes two plays before the other side of the field.

"All they did was flip flop to the other side," Brown said. "I anticipated it. I didn't believe he'd throw it. I was about five feet away from Rhodes in great position. He threw it. I caught it."

Rhodes said: "They were playing a safety X, which means the short safety covers the flat. The ball was well thrown. Brown had the momentum and picked it up."

Snead, who completed 10 of 20 passes for 85 yards, said of Brown: "He had our pattern. It was just one of those days."

Giants' Coach Bill Arnsparger, who had only the running of rookie Doug Kotar to praise, said, "It was the worst we played all year. I'm disappointed in myself because it's my job to get them ready to play."

Kotar carried 15 times for 119 yards. He picked up 53 yards on a touchdown run the second time, poking into Atlanta territory. But on second down and six

Casper Captures French T of C

SAINT-NOM-LA-BRETECHE, France (UPI) — Billy Casper of the United States shot a one-over par 73 Sunday to beat out seven other top pro golfers and win France's fifth Tournament of Champions.

Casper, who opened with a record-breaking 66 on the first day of the tournament, which the French call the continent's most prestigious, earned $17,000 for his 72-hole total of 283.

U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin birdied the final two holes for a 70 to overtake South Africa's Bobby Cole with a total of 286. Cole, who had a 71, was another stroke back at 287.

THE BRUTAL END — The decapitated body of Austrian race driver Helmuth Koinigg, 25, lies in his Surtees-Ford racer after it crashed through two fences and under guard rail Sunday during U.S. Grand Prix in Watkins Glen. Koinigg was driving in his second Grand Prix race.

Austrian Driver Killed

Fittipaldi Wins Grand Prix

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (AP) — Carlos Reutemann won the battle and fellow Latin-American Emerson Fittipaldi won the war during Sunday's 15th running of the United States Grand Prix.

"It is good," both said, following Reutemann's wire-to-wire victory and Fittipaldi's fourth-place finish that gave him his second world driving championship in two years.

And both were somewhat subdued in their victory celebrations because of the death during the race of 25-year-old Austrian driver Helmuth Koinigg.

Koinigg, of Salzburg, Austria, was killed instantly when his Surtees-Ford failed to make a hairpin turn on the race course and crashed through a steel barrier.

His was the third death among Grand Prix drivers this year and the second at Watkins Glen in two years. American Peter Revson was killed in South Africa in March and Switzerland's Silvio Moser at Monza, Italy, in April. French ace Francois Cevert died in a crash at Watkins Glen the day before last year's race.

Reutemann, who had qualified his Brabham-Ford team car in the front-row pole position, never trailed as he took Reutemann, who earlier had the lead at the starter's flag and gradually built up a safe lead over teammate Carlos Pace of Brazil.

Pace passed Britisher James Hunt with only five laps to claim second place. Hunt was third in a Hesketh-Ford, followed by Fittipaldi in a McLaren team car, and John Watson of Ireland in a third Brabham.

won the South African and Australian Grand Prix races, ran 199,284 miles in 1:40:21.0 for a speed of 119.12 miles per hour — a new record for the redesigned Glen circuit.

He was paid $50,000 from the $300,000 purse, his biggest paycheck ever. He said he will share it with members of his team.

HELMUTH KOINIGG

Fittipaldi had entered the race deadlocked with Clay Regazzoni, a Ferrari driver from Switzerland, each with 52 championship points. Jody Scheckter, 24, of South Africa, trailed with 45 points.

But Regazzoni never was a contender and was out of the championship running after having to pit for a tire change 20 laps into the race.

Scheckter, who could have become the youngest world titleholder ever, ran up front during the early going but was forced out at the 45th lap when his Tyrrell-Ford developed fuel problems.

Fittipaldi thus wound up with 55 points for the season, while Regazzoni remained second with 52 points. Scheckter placed third in the final standings, with Regazzoni's Ferrari teammate Niki Lauda holding fourth with 38.

Battered Dolphins Hope To Regain Winning Form

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The physically battered Miami Dolphins will try again tonight to regain the form that led them to the last two Super Bowl titles as they host the New York Jets in a nationally televised National Football League game.

The Dolphins, with two offensive tackles sidelined with injuries, have struggled to a 2-1 record and may not have the services of their two leading receivers against the Jets.

Paul Warfield and Marlin Briscoe both have hamstring injuries and Howard Twilley and rookie Nat Moore may end up as quarterback Bob Griese's targets, along with tight end Jim Mandich.

Also ailing are cornerback Curtis Johnson and running back Mercury Morris. Their status won't be known until pregame warmups.

Coach Don Shula is hoping to lead Miami to a third Super Bowl title before five of his starters leave for the World Football League next year.

But the Dolphins haven't been as effective offensively or defensively as they were in winning 32 of 34 games in the 1972-73 seasons.

The defense which was the league's best under Bill Arnsparger, now coach of the New York Giants, has given up 23 points a game and rates no better than 11th among 13 American Conference teams.

Miami may get a boost from the weather tonight in trying to stop the passing of Jets' quarterback Joe Namath. Forecasters say winds of up to 20 miles per hour may be around by the 9 p.m. EDT kickoff.

Opponents have averaged nearly 170 yards rushing and 175 passing against Miami. The Jets, with a 1-2 record, hope to balance Namath's aerial show with John Riggins, who has 216 yards in 57 carries.

Miami's ground-dominated offense has been inconsistent but Griese has made up for it by completing 43 of 69 passes for 586 yards and four touchdowns. He threw only 218 times all of last year and Shula said the difference is Miami is playing comeback football this fall.

Fullback Larry Csonka, seeking his fourth straight year of 1,000 yards rushing, has 236 yards and a 4.1 average. But injuries to Morris have taken away the outside threat.

Both teams need a victory to keep pace with American Conference's Eastern Division leaders New England (4-0) and Buffalo (3-1).

golden sign of Imperial goodness

The crest of the golden eagles marks an unusual whiskey. Of the hundreds of whiskeys in the world, none is better made than this. Imperial: light and good-natured — it mixes well. Follow the golden eagles to Imperial pleasure.

Did you ever try driving eight cars at one time?

We'll tell you how. Get into an Audi 100LS. You'll be starting it up like a Porsche 911. With the same type ignition system. You'll be steering with a rack and pinion system. Like a racing Ferrari. You'll be smoothing the rough roads with independent front suspension. Like an Aston Martin. You'll have the traction of front wheel drive. Like a Cadillac Eldorado. A luxurious interior like a Mercedes 280. About the same headroom and legroom as a Rolls-Royce Silver Shadow. Even more trunk space than a Lincoln Continental Mark IV. And about 24 mpg* (practically the same as a VW). We'll ask you now. Why drive one car at one time?

Rondout and Red Hook Looking Better Each Week

By STEVE KANE

KINGSTON Saturday's results. Sure, the in Walkill and Pine Bush and the undefeated records of Raiders figured to be enjoying beat them both soundly. The Red Hook and Rondout in the after three weeks of the football sure the Ganders needed a Red Hook and Rondout in the Liberty fumble in the last expected and with an offense Ulster County Athletic League quarter to get a win, but there's that was weeks ahead of the after three weeks of the football more to the game than that. competition in execution. Most teams, even some good ones, would have had a let down the physical things the Red Hook team has going for it, in that third game. Red Hook that positive mental state has didn't. If anything the Raiders were sharper than ever. look even better now. "They had a good attitude all week long in practice," said Rondout is ahead of the game already. A year ago the Gander Raider coach John Neilson who appeared to be a little surprised by it all himself. Along with season with only two wins.

Furthermore, the Gander victories this season have been big ones. Rondout has disposed by hook or crook three strong opponents in Highland, New Paltz and Liberty. "We'd like to score more this time," said RVC coach Mickey Million before the Liberty game. His team did just that because of it in the weeks to come. Standing just out of the glare of the spotlight are four other teams. Each has absorbed one loss, but none can be counted out at this stage.

Highland for one has atoned for its opening day loss with two easy wins. Most recently the Big Blue savaged Marlboro by 30 points. When its backs are running and its line is blocking, Highland can do that to any opponent.

And New Paltz, which lost its stride in the rain and mud of a week ago, again demonstrated its explosive scoring punch in a whitewash of Ellenville. Liberty ran up 256 yards on the Gander defense and led most of the way before finally falling in the last quarter. The Redskins were far from overwhelmed and have yet to be defeated effectively.

And Walkill, the defending champion which was hit by the crucial injuries early in the season, now seems to have come up with an entirely different type of team, but one that is capable of winning nonetheless. Fine Bush rates as the year's biggest disappointment to date. The total lack of offense the Redskins displayed against the Redskins was a mystery, and the 1-2 record is far from what coach John Shaughnessy expected before the season began.

Regardless of that, Pine Bush still has talent. If the league leaders don't get knocked off soon, however, the Redskins will find their poor start a little difficult to overcome.

1 and 8 Combinations For Geiberger, Miller

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — "How about that?" smiled lean Al Geiberger. "Johnny Miller wins eight in one year and I win one in eight years."

Without a tour victory since he won the 1966 PGA Championship, the 37-year-old veteran from Santa Barbara, Calif., finally saw things fall into place Sunday.

The result: a three-shot triumph in the $135,000 Sahara Invitational and a purse of $27,000.

"I don't care about the money," Geiberger said. "The money's not important. It's winning again that counts."

"I was going all out to win here. At this point in my career, second place doesn't mean anything. You lose confidence in yourself when you go this long without a win. You begin to wonder if you can do it again."

"You get tired of explaining to people how long it's been between wins, too. Losing is in the back of your mind. It's almost as if you're a rookie out there."

Geiberger, a 15-year tour pro from the University of Southern California, got some sound advice from his old college coach, Stan Wood, who was at the tournament.

"I have a tendency to back off," Geiberger said. "Stan told me to go out and attack the course."

(Bobby Heins of Monticello, the first round leader with 66, tailed off to a 77 Sunday and 72-hole total of 289 for a payoff of $320.)

Geiberger didn't exactly burn up the course on the final day of the sun-baked tournament but his two-under-par 69 over the Sahara-Nevada Country Club course was the best round among the top seven contenders who started the last round.

One of the contenders, Chi Chi Rodriguez, took a triple bogey eight on the 18th hole. Geiberger, playing three holes behind Rodriguez, knew he was home free.

His 69 followed rounds of 70-68-66, and his 276 total was three strokes better than a runnerup foursome made up of the Hill brothers, Dave and Mike, plus Wally Armstrong and Jerry Heard.

Johnny Miller, golf's golden boy of 1974, had the best round of the day—a seven-under 65—to finish in a tie with Rodriguez and David Graham.

The $4,387 check Miller took home from the Sahara gave him $351,220 for the year—more than $30,000 above the old record set in 1972 by Jack Nicklaus.

By winning his sixth PGA event, the 6-2, 180-pound Geiberger boosted his earnings this year to $83,551, his top money season ever.

"Well," he laughed, "I grind 'em out pretty slow, don't I?"

Geiberger actually won a tournament in Japan last year. He was the medalist in a team match between the United States and Japan.

"That helped give me a little confidence," he said. "But this one gives me a lot more."

Geiberger said he plans to play in the final two PGA events of the year, the San Antonio-Texas open in two weeks and the Disney World's team championship in four weeks.

Miller, 27, won't play in Texas but is scheduled to team with Grier Jones in the Disney event.

Czechs Check Kickers, 5-1

NEW YORK The Kingston Sport Club did what it could with only ten players in Central Park Sunday, but that was not nearly enough to prevent the fifth straight defeat in the German American Soccer League, a 5-1 setback at the hands of the Czech-Americans.

Vincent Keldel struck for four goals to lead the Czechs to their third win in five games. A great save early in the first half by the winners' goalie preserved a 1-0 halftime lead by the Czechs, then Keldel opened up with a second half barrage that buried the Kickers' chances.

Dave Kaplan of Kingston spoiled the shutout at the 88th minute of the game hitting on a 10 yard boot from the right side.

Steve Zolarek got the other goal for the winners.

"Had we scored in the first half things might have been different," said Kingston goalie Joel Thompson, "but we played very poorly defensively. Bill Rutherford was outstanding for us at center fullback."

Thompson had seven saves to the Czechs keeper's three. The Kickers took five shots on goal to the winners' 16 and trailed 0-2 in corner kicks. None of the game's six goals were assisted.

The Kickers will attempt to regroup Wednesday with a practice at St. Mary's field and a team meeting at the Court Restaurant. Kingston's next game is slated for home at 2:30 p.m. Sunday against an opponent to be announced.

Checking Up on Hoople

KINGSTON

Major Amos B. Hoople bounced in and out of the office with a happy grin on his face Saturday upon learning that he'd correctly picked five of the seven high school football games on the local schedule.

The Major missed Poughkeepsie's win over Saugerties and Walkill's over Pine Bush, but he appeared to be pleased he had tabbed the John Jay and Rondout victories.

Hoople has a record of 15-6 after three weeks, a percentage of .719.

Carole Jo Skala 4-Shot Leader in Cameron Golf

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Carole Jo Skala, playing on home ground, shot a four-under-par 69 Sunday to capture the Ladies Professional Golf Association Classic.

The victory over the 6,190-yard Cameron Park Country Club course was Mrs. Skala's third victory this year, and the $5,000 first-prize money boosted her earnings to $43,149. She has been ranked ninth on the money-winning list.

Tied for second were Cathy Duggan and Jane Blalock, who finished at 217, four strokes behind Mrs. Skala. Both shot 73 Sunday.

Another stroke back were defending champion Sandra Palmer, Sandra Haynie, JoAnne Carner, Betsy Cullen and Laura Baugh.

Amy Alcott, the Los Angeles amateur who led after the first round with a 69, shot a 78 Sunday and finished at 224.

Mary Mills of Guilford, Miss., the second-round leader, shot a 79 for a 220 total.

Red Hook 5th At Cobleskill

COBLESKILL

Red Hook High's cross country team turned in a good showing at the Cobleskill Invitational here Saturday, finishing fifth in a field of 16 teams in one of seven varsity level races held during the meet.

The Raiders scored 221 points to trail powerful Albertus Magnus, Washingtonville, James O'Neill and Pleasantville but finished ahead of UCAI rival New Paltz.

Mark Gravino, a Red Hook sophomore, took an individual tenth place to lead the Raiders. He covered the 2.5 mile track 32 seconds faster than Lorenzo Simmons of New Paltz who ran 16th. The individual victor was Tim Hall of Highland Falls, but the No. 1 rated Albertus Magnus team captured seven of the first ten places in the race.

Red Hook ran without Mike Mahoney and Bob Arsenault. Mahoney had a prior commitment, and Arsenault was resting a minor ankle sprain.

The Raider freshmen turned in a third place in their race behind St. Francis of Buffalo and Queensbury of Rochester. Carl Schneider led the frosh with a ninth place 9:13 for the 1.5 mile run.

Gander Jayvees Are Undefeated

LIBERTY

Rondout Valley High School's junior varsity football team defeated Liberty, 14-0. Carl Grassi threw a forty yard pass to Tim Donnelly for the first score and Grassi ran in from two yards out for the second. Grassi also ran in for the conversion after the first touchdown.

It was Rondout's third straight shutout. The little Ganders have beaten Highland, 2-0, New Paltz, 12-0, and Liberty.

New Paltz JV's beat Ellenville, 32-6. Dennis Oakley tallied a pair of touchdowns for the little Hugies.

Sears Snow Passenger Tire Guarantee

Guarantee applies to tire on vehicles used for private family purposes. Tread Lifetime Guarantee. Tread Wear-Out Guarantee.

If the tire fails during the life of serviceable tread, due to defects in material or workmanship or due to normal road hazards...

If the tire wears out before the number of months specified...

We will, at our option, exchange it for a new tire, or give you a refund, charging in either case only for the proportion of the then current selling price plus Federal Excise tax that represents tread used. Nail punctures will be repaired at no charge.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Others will respond in a like manner. You're likely to be faced with a number of small domestic crises. Take things in stride so you can manage them coolly and competently.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Over the next few days you will find yourself in a position where others will dump extra work on you. They should be doing it themselves.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Today and tomorrow, manage your material affairs with the same prudence a banker would. Don't spend what you don't have.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) There won't be harmony around home today if you set the tone with a cranky disposition.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) An argumentative acquaintance is apt to get in the last words if the two of you get involved in a verbal encounter now.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're on rather thin ice the next few days in any situation where friends and something of material value or money is concerned.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't expect goals you want to achieve to be realized gratis. They won't be — you'll have to really put out in order to get.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your present plans will not work as well for you as they should if they are overloaded with emotional content. Be logical, objective.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) The next few days be careful you're not drawn into a situation with some friends that could obligate you in some undesirable manner.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Teamwork is not your long suit now, yet it is essential you do all you can to be sure harmony is maintained in an important relationship.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you press yourself too hard now where work is concerned you'll get fatigued easily and cut down on your efficiency.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't risk anything at this time on situations that are vague or only partially visible. Get a crystal-clear picture before moving.

Squeeze Taxed for Discards

By Oswald and James Jacoby

for "the squeeze, but tend to make the squeeze most unhappy."

Oswald: "The simplest of these plays is the two-suit squeeze against one opponent. Some times you have to prepare this sort of squeeze. On other occasions it develops automatically if declarer just runs off high cards in the other suits."

Jim: "South takes a quick look at dummy and counts 12 top tricks. Four spades, four hearts, three diamonds and a club. One opponent must have a diamond stopper since suits never break 3-3-3-3. Both may hold club stoppers, but if the man who holds the long diamonds happens to hold all the high clubs he is going to be squeezed."

Oswald: "The process is a simple one. South wins the club lead and runs off the spades and hearts. West must make three discards. He also can only throw two clubs and must unguard the diamonds on the lead of the last major suit card."

Jim: "Let's write about squeeze plays."

Oswald: "They're like death and taxes. We will always have them."

Jim: "They are happy things."

Guerrillas Continue to Hold Seven Hostages

SANTO DOMINGO (UPI) — Seven hostages, including a U.S. woman diplomat, wound up a grueling week and a half in captivity today, pawns in a dramatic confrontation between leftist guerrillas and the Dominican government.

A flurry of government activity outside the darkened Venezuelan Consulate Sunday raised the suspicions of the guerrillas inside the besieged building and led to a new threat against the captives.

An ambulance drew up by the consulate and police suddenly moved newsmen back three blocks from the building. Guerrilla chief Radames Mendez Vargas, suspicious of the moves, rushed to a consulate window.

"If you take measures, we will too," he yelled at police.

U.S. Ambassador Robert Hurwits went into a nearby Baptist church to telephone the guerrillas. He later stepped out into a patio and shouted to Mendez.

Hurwits delivered a food package to the consulate later in the day, but the guerrillas let the box lie for a half-hour despite the ambassador's shouts of "Trust me. I guarantee it's okay."

Finally, a guerrilla scurried out to get the package while others covered him with sub-machine guns from the doorway and an upstairs window.

The leftist kidnapped U.S. Embassy public affairs officer

Barbara Hutchison, 47, of Newark, Del., on Sept. 27 as she was driving on a Santo Domingo street.

The guerrillas drove her to the consulate, captured the building and seized six other hostages, including the Venezuelan consul and a Spanish priest.

The guerrillas demanded $1 million ransom and safe passage out of the country for themselves and three dozen imprisoned comrades.

They threatened to execute the hostages at two-hour intervals, but four different deadlines passed without any reports of captives slain.

On Thursday, the guerrillas dropped the $1 million request and said the number of political prisoners released was negotiable.

Police Chief Rafael Guillermo Guzman Acosta, in the only break in official silence, said Friday he would accept only unconditional surrender.

Authorities have cut electricity and water to the consulate, but Hurwits has brought daily supplies of food, water and medicine to the building.

BOMB BLAST VICTIM — A victim of the bomb blast with blood streaming down his face is helped away by two rescue workers from the Seven Stars pub, one of the two bombed in Guildford, England. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Twin Bomb Blasts Rock English Pubs

GUILDFORD, England (UPI) — Pvt. Jimmy Cooper of the Scots Guards got up from his seat in the Horse and Groom pub and walked over to the bar to buy a round of beer for his buddies.

Moments later, a bomb hidden near the table exploded with a thunderous roar, killing five persons and wounding five dozen others.

"I can only think I was saved because I was getting up and moving away," the 19-year-old soldier said from a hospital bed. "I was very lucky."

Before the smoke cleared, another bomb blew up in the nearly empty Seven Stars pub 100 yards away, causing only minor casualties.

Scotland Yard declined officially to blame the Irish Republican Army for Saturday night's twin blasts, but police sources said the bombs appeared to be the work of the outlawed underground group.

The sources said the two bars were generally known to be frequented by soldiers from British military bases near Guildford, 28 miles south of London.

The blasts were the first in England since July 17 when a bomb exploded in the tourist-packed Tower of London killing an Englishwoman and injuring 41 persons, mostly foreigners.

The Guildford explosions raised the death toll to 26 since the IRA extended its anti-

British bomb campaign from Northern Ireland to England 19 months ago.

The blasts came three days after Judith Ward, 25, went on trial under unprecedented security in Wakefield, 180 miles north of London, for an army bus bombing that killed 12 persons last February.

Cooper, sitting up in his hospital bed, said he owed his life to a reminder from one of his drinking buddies that it was his turn to buy a round of beer.

"The bar was fairly busy and it was like a party," he said. "It was my turn to get a round. As I got up to go for the beer, there was a bang and a lot of heat."

The young soldier was hurled through a window with his jacket, shirt and hair on fire. By standers smothered the flames and rushed him to safety.

Two friends at his table died. Two newly enlisted privates in the Women's Royal Army Corps were also killed by the blast.

The fifth victim, civilian plasterer Paul Craig, took a friend — Pvt. Carol Burns — to the bar with her parents to celebrate her 19th birthday. He would have been 22 on Sunday.

Brezhnev Reiterates Proposals

BERLIN (AP) — Soviet party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev has declared that it is time to "move further ahead" in disarmament talks, a restatement of standing Kremlin policy.

The prod came in a speech Sunday as Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger prepared to travel to Moscow on Oct. 23 for talks on nuclear weaponry and as Americans and Russians are meeting again in Geneva for strategic arms limitation talks (SALT).

Brezhnev used a live 70-minute appearance on East German television to reiterate Soviet proposals on limitation of strategic armaments, reduction of troops in Central Europe, destruction of chemical weapons, withdrawal of nuclear vessels from the Mediterranean area and cessation of underground nuclear tests.

U.S. officials in Washington said an initial reading of the speech indicated no new proposals.

The Soviet leader, in East Berlin to participate in the observance of the 25th anniversary of the East German state, said previous agreements on arms controls "are not functioning badly."

The SALT talks resumed last month after a six-month recess and a gloomy assessment by President Ford at his Aug. 28 news conference that there was no uniform U.S. position.

SALT I, the first round, established a rough parity of nuclear weapons. SALT II, which began in November 1972, was to have dealt with controls on the quality of nuclear weapons, but a virtual deadlock developed.

The negotiations adjourned March 19 in hopes that the July summit between Brezhnev and former President Richard M. Nixon would produce agreement on how to proceed. The summit produced only marginal agreements.

Kissinger is expected to seek ways to unlock the talks during his visit this month.

Clemency Board Chairman Hopeful

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The report on why 40 men in military stockades refused to apply for discharge at the time President Ford's earned re-entry program will eventually be accepted by those who felt it went too far and those who felt it didn't go far enough.

The clemency board was to hold its second meeting today, the first to discuss individual cases.

One of the first items before the nine-member board is a report on why 40 men in military stockades refused to apply for discharge at the time President Ford's earned re-entry program will eventually be accepted by those who felt it went too far and those who felt it didn't go far enough.

Chairman Charles Goodell was interviewed Sunday on UPI Audio's "Washington Window" program.

"I think the initial reaction of the veterans groups and the representatives of the resisters in Canada... was predictable," Goodell said.

"They are very sincere, they have very strong views. On the other hand, I think as they see this program operate, assuming the military in peace and in it operates fairly, I think a war, according to the law," great many of them are going said Goodell, an early opponent to come around — even the of the Vietnam war.

He said that although the resisters found it impossible to resist during that obligation during how many would take advantage of the offer, but at the same time he stressed what he believed was the fairness of Ford's program. He took exception to statements that it is consistent with their conscience."

"I believe that every American has the obligation to serve this program operate, assuming the military in peace and in it operates fairly, I think a war, according to the law," great many of them are going said Goodell, an early opponent to come around — even the of the Vietnam war.

He said that although the resisters found it impossible to resist during that obligation during how many would take advantage of the offer, but at the same time he stressed what he believed was the fairness of Ford's program. Concern Over Missing Chinese Vessel

NEW YORK (UPI) — Officials expressed concern Sunday about the fate of a 50-foot replica of a Chinese junk that has not been heard from in three weeks, but a New York filmmaker said he doubted anything was wrong.

Eight men left Hong Kong on June 18 in the vessel, Tai Ki, hoping to sail the Pacific to the West Coast of Central America and prove that is how Oriental people were among the first to settle in the Americas.

into the hull, but the boat was able to stay afloat because of patchwork.

The purpose of the journey was to test anthropological theories that the Americas were settled by persons arriving from more than one route.

including one from the Far East.

In addition to Martin and Knoebel, the crew included Arno Dennig of Austria, Allan Karting of Denmark, Carl Frederic Grage of Denmark, Wolff Werner of West Germany, Dr. Robert Kendrick of England and Hal Price of Ireland.

Early Winter Forecast

MONTPELIER, Vt. (UPI) — Brook trout are spawning early; groundhogs are sleepy; blackbirds are on the move; caterpillars have shaggy coats, and moss is thick. What does it all mean?

Snow, according to the Vermont Agency of Development and Community Affairs says, which among duties is in charge of promoting Vermont skiing.

Woolie bears, a species of caterpillars, are now "wearing the shaggiest fur coats that have been noted in years," a spokesman said, quoting "woolie bear observers" as saying that means the first heavy snows can be expected in mid-November.

ducking into their winter holes several weeks earlier than usual. And red-winged blackbirds are said to be flying South three weeks ahead of schedule.

The agency's final evidence for the early and long winter theory is moss, a traditional Vermont way of predicting winter.

One "venerable moss-watcher" was quoted as saying the moss growing on the north side of oak trees "is thicker than piety at a church supper and we should have snow shoulder-high to an elephant's eye come December."

At the time of the last message, the crew reported the position as 1,600 miles east of Japan.

In its first few days at sea, the boat encountered heavy damage after encountering four storms and put into Taiwan for repairs.

At sea again, a crewman, Kumo Knoebel, an Austrian television producer and writer, became ill. Knoebel was removed by Japanese seamen. The Tai Ki continued its voyage. At one point the crew said worms were burrowing
